PREFACE.

THE present convenient and carefully arranged combination of the Authorised and Revised Versions of God's Holy Word, in one single volume of very moderate size, will be welcomed by all students, and especially by all teachers of the Bible.

Hitherto the use of the Revised Version in its first published form has been felt by the teacher to involve two very real difficulties. In the first place he did not find in the margin any reference to parallel or illustrative passages, nor even any indication, in the case of the numerous quotations in the New Testament from the Old Testament, of the book from which the quotation was made. This of course necessitated the use of a supplemental copy of the Authorised Version with the usual marginal references. The necessity of using two separate volumes, it may be confidently stated, was the reason why the use of the Revised Version was found to be so much less, in the case of teachers and general Bible-readers, than might naturally have been expected.

This first difficulty, after some lapse of time, has been completely removed by the publication in May 1898 of the whole Revised Version with most carefully considered marginal references, a full account of which will be found in the prefatory notice in the edition referred to.

The second difficulty, however, has still remained, viz. the necessity, in the case of the careful reader or teacher, of having two volumes before him, the Authorised Version and the Revised Version,—the editions in parallel columns being as yet unprovided with the first requisite, marginal references. Even if the smallest of these editions were supplied with these references, not only would the volume be bulky, but a minor though a real difficulty would remain, viz. that the eye of the reader, in passing from one column to the other, would, especially in the New Testament, miss many of the smaller changes, on which occasionally much does really depend.

There is thus plainly room for such a publication as the present, in which, in a single moderately sized volume, every one of the above-mentioned difficulties has been successfully overcome. The reader will, however, have thoroughly to master the explanatory Key, which is subjoined to these prefatory comments. When this is done, it will be found that every difference between the two versions, including even punctuation, can be recognised with readiness and certitude.

The volume owes its origin to a suggestion of Mr. Alfred F. Buxton, and it is to his continued interest in the work and to his generous support that its final publication is mainly due.

EXPLANATORY KEY.

IN the columns marked R.V. are placed all the readings of the Revised Version which differ from the text of the Authorised Version.

The small figures in the text show where words are added or an alteration begins.

IN the R.V. columns—

s denotes readings substituted in the Revised for those in the Authorised Version.

A denotes an addition.

M „ a marginal note, or alternative reading.

¶ is used in these columns to indicate the beginning of a new paragraph. The same sign when used in the A.V. text without the mark of omission, shows that the paragraph is common to both versions.

IN the A.V. text—

o denotes the omission from the Revised Version of the words marked.

! denotes the end of the portion of text altered or omitted.

† „ that the words in italics which follow appear in roman type in the Revised Version.

Every Chapter commences with a fresh paragraph unless otherwise indicated.

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTY PRINCE JAMES, BY THE GRACE OF GOD, KING OF GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE, AND IRELAND, DEFENDER OF THE FAITH, &c., THE TRANSLATORS OF THE BIBLE WISH GRACE, MERCY, AND PEACE, THROUGH JESUS CHRIST OUR LORD.

GREAT and manifold were the blessings, most dread Sovereign, which Almighty God, the Father of all mercies, bestowed upon us the people of England, when first he sent Your Majesty's Royal Person to rule and reign over us. For whereas it was the expectation of many, who wished not well unto our Sion, that upon the setting of that bright Occidental Star, Queen Elizabeth of most happy memory, some thick and palpable clouds of darkness would so have overshadowed this Land, that men should have been in doubt which way they were to walk; and that it should hardly be known, who was to direct the unsettled State; the appearance of Your Majesty, as of the Sun in his strength, instantly dispelled those supposed and surmised mists, and gave unto all that were well affected exceeding cause of comfort; especially when we beheld the Government established in Your Highness, and Your hopeful Seed, by an undoubted Title, and this also accompanied with peace and tranquillity at home and abroad.

But among all our joys, there was no one that more filled our hearts, than the blessed continuance of the preaching of God's sacred Word among us; which is that inestimable treasure, which excelleth all the riches of the earth; because the fruit thereof extendeth itself, not only to the time spent in this transitory world, but directeth and disposeth men unto that eternal happiness which is above in heaven.

Then not to suffer this to fall to the ground, but rather to take it up, and to continue it in that state, wherein the famous Predecessor of Your Highness did leave it: nay, to go forward with the confidence and resolution of a Man in maintaining the truth of Christ, and propagating it far and near, is that which hath so bound and firmly knit the hearts of all Your Majesty's loyal and religious people unto You, that Your very name is precious among them: their eye doth behold You with comfort, and they bless You in their hearts, as that sanctified Person, who, under God, is the immediate Author of their true happiness. And this their contentment doth not diminish or decay, but every day increaseth and taketh strength, when they observe, that the zeal of Your Majesty toward the house of God doth not slack or go backward, but is more and more kindled, manifesting itself abroad in the farthest parts of Christendom, by writing in defence of the Truth, (which hath given such a blow unto that man of sin, as will not be healed,) and every day at home, by religious and learned discourse, by frequenting the house of God, by hearing the Word preached, by cherishing the Teachers thereof, by caring for the Church, as a most tender and loving nursing Father.

There are infinite arguments of this right christian and religious affection in Your Majesty; but none is more forcible to declare it to others than the vehement and perpetuated desire of accomplishing and publishing of this work, which now with all humility we present unto Your Majesty. For when Your Highness had once out of deep judgment apprehended how convenient it was, that out of the Original Sacred Tongues, together with comparing of the labours, both in our own, and other foreign Languages, of many worthy men who went before us, there should be one more exact Translation of the holy Scriptures into the English Tongue; Your Majesty did never desist to urge and to excite those to whom it was commended, that the work might be hastened, and that the business might be expedited in so decent a manner, as a matter of such importance might justly require.

And now at last, by the mercy of God, and the continuance of our labours, it being brought unto such a conclusion, as that we have great hopes that the Church of England shall reap good fruit thereby; we hold it our duty to offer it to Your Majesty, not only as to our King and Sovereign, but as to the principal Mover and Author of the work: humbly craving of Your most Sacred Majesty, that since things of this quality have ever been subject to the censures of illmeaning and discontented persons, it may receive approbation and patronage from so learned and judicious a Prince as Your Highness is, whose allowance and acceptance of our labours shall more honour and encourage us, than all the calumniations and hard interpretations of other men shall dismay us. So that if, on the one side, we shall be traduced by Popish Persons at home or abroad, who therefore will malign us, because we are poor instruments to make God's holy Truth to be yet more and more known unto the people, whom they desire still to keep in ignorance and darkness; or if, on the other side, we shall be maligned by selfconceited Brethren, who run their own ways, and give liking unto nothing, but what is framed by themselves, and hammered on their anvil; we may rest secure, supported within by the truth and innocency of a good conscience, having walked the ways of simplicity and integrity, as before the Lord; and sustained without by the powerful protection of Your Majesty's grace and favour, which will ever give countenance to honest and christian endeavours against bitter censures and uncharitable imputations.

The Lord of heaven and earth bless Your Majesty with many and happy days, that, as his heavenly hand hath enriched Your Highness with many singular and extraordinary graces, so You may be the wonder of the world in this latter age for happiness and true felicity, to the honour of that great GOD, and the good of his Church, through Jesus Christ our Lord and only Saviour.

THE TRANSLATORS TO THE READER.*

ZEAL to promote the common good, whether it be by devising any thing ourselves, or revising that which hath been laboured by others, deserveth certainly much respect and esteem, but yet findeth but cold entertainment in the world. It is welcomed with suspicion instead of love, and with emulation instead of thanks: and if there be any hole left for cavil to enter, (and cavil, if it do not find an hole, will make one,) it is sure to be misconstrued, and in danger to be condemned. This will easily be granted by as many as know story, or have any experience. For was there ever any thing projected, that savoured any way of newness or renewing, but the same endured many a storm of gainsaying or opposition? A man would think that civility, wholesome laws, learning and eloquence, synods, and Churchmaintenance, (that we speak of no more things of this kind,) should be as safe as a sanctuary, and out of shot, as they say, that no man would lift up his heel, no, nor dog move his tongue against the motioners of them. For by the first we are distinguished from brute beasts led with sensuality: by the second we are bridled and restrained from outrageous behaviour, and from doing of injuries, whether by fraud or by violence: by the third we are enabled to inform and reform others by the light and feeling that we have attained unto ourselves: briefly, by the fourth, being brought together to a parley face to face, we sooner compose our differences, than by writings, which are endless: and lastly, that the Church be sufficiently provided for is so agreeable to good reason and conscience, that those mothers are holden to be less cruel, that kill their children as soon as they are born, than those nursing fathers and mothers (wheresoever they be) that withdraw from them who hang upon their breasts (and upon whose breasts again themselves do hang to receive the spiritual and sincere milk of the word) livelihood and support fit for their estates. Thus it is apparent, that these things which we speak of are of most necessary use, and therefore that none, either without absurdity can speak against them, or without note of wickedness can spurn against them.

Yet for all that, the learned know, that certain worthy men have been brought to untimely death for none other fault, but for seeking to reduce their countrymen to good order and discipline: And that in some Commonweals it was made a capital crime, once to motion the making of a new law for the abrogating of an old, though the same were most pernicious: And that certain, which would be counted pillars of the State, and patterns of virtue and prudence, could not be brought for a long time to give way to good letters and refined speech; but bare themselves as averse from them, as from rocks or boxes of poison: And fourthly, that he was no babe, but a great Clerk, that gave forth, (and in writing to remain to posterity,) in passion peradventure, but yet he gave forth, That he had not seen any profit to come by any synod or meeting of the Clergy, but rather the contrary: And lastly, against Churchmaintenance and allowance, in such sort as the ambassadors and messengers of the great King of kings should be furnished, it is not unknown what a fiction or fable (so it is esteemed, and for no better by the reporter himself, though superstitious) was devised: namely, That at such time as the professors and teachers of Christianity in the Church of Rome, then a true Church, were liberally endowed, a voice forsooth was heard from heaven, saying, Now is poison poured down into the Church, &c. Thus not only as oft as we speak, as one saith, but also as oft as we do any thing of note or consequence, we subject ourselves to every one's censure, and happy is he that is least tossed upon tongues; for utterly to escape the snatch of them it is impossible. If any man conceit, that this is the lot and portion of the meaner sort only, and that Princes are privileged by their high estate, he is deceived. As the sword devoureth as well one as another, as it is in Samuel; nay, as the great commander charged his soldiers in a certain battle to strike at no part of the enemy, but at the face; and as the king of Syria commanded his chief captains to fight neither with small nor great, save only against the king of Israel: so it is too true, that envy striketh most spitefully at the fairest, and the chiefest. David was a worthy prince, and no man to be compared to him for his first deeds; and yet for as worthy an act as ever he did, even for bringing back the ark of God in solemnity, he was scorned and scoffed at by his own wife. Solomon was greater than David, though not in virtue, yet in power; and by his power and wisdom he built a temple to the Lord, such an one as was the glory of the land of Israel, and the wonder of the whole world. But was that his magnificence liked of by all? We doubt of it. Otherwise why do they lay it in his son's dish, and call unto him for easing of the burden? Make, say they, the grievous servitude of thy father, and his sore yoke, lighter. Belike he had charged them with some levies, and troubled them with some carriages; hereupon they raise up a tragedy, and wish in their heart the temple had never been built. So hard a thing it is to please all, even when we please God best, and do seek to approve ourselves to every one's conscience.

If we will descend to latter times, we shall find many the like examples of such kind, or rather unkind, acceptance. The first Roman Emperor did never do a more pleasing deed to the learned, nor more profitable to posterity, for conserving the record of times in true supputation, than when he corrected the Calendar, and ordered the year according to the course of the sun: and yet this was imputed to him for novelty, and arrogancy, and procured to him great obloquy. So the first Christened Emperor (at the least wise, that openly professed the faith himself, and allowed others to do the like,) for strengthening the empire at his great charges, and providing for the Church, as he did, got for his labour the name Pupillus, as who would say, a wasteful Prince, that had need of a guardian or overseer. So the best Christened Emperor, for the love that he bare unto peace, thereby to enrich both himself and his subjects, and because he did not seek war, but find it, was judged to be no man at arms, (though indeed he excelled in feats of chivalry, and shewed so much when he was provoked,) and condemned for giving himself to his ease, and to his pleasure. To be short, the most learned Emperor of former times, (at the least, the greatest politician,) what thanks had he for cutting off the superfluities of the laws, and digesting them into some order and method? This, that he hath been blotted by some to be an Epitomist, that is, one that extinguished worthy whole volumes, to bring his abridgments into request. This is the measure that hath been rendered to excellent Princes in former times, cum bene facerent, male audire, for their good deeds to be evil spoken of. Neither is there any likelihood that envy and malignity died and were buried with the ancient. No, no, the reproof of Moses taketh hold of most ages, Ye are risen up in your fathers' stead, an increase of sinful men. What is that that hath been done? that which shall be done; and there is no new thing under the sun, saith the wise man. And St. Stephen, As your fathers did, so do ye. This, and more to this purpose, his Majesty that now reigneth (and long, and long, may he reign, and his offspring for ever, Himself, and children, and children's children always!) knew full well, according to the singular wisdom given unto him by God, and the rare learning and experience that he hath attained unto; namely, That whosoever attempteth any thing for the publick, (especially if it pertain to religion, and to the opening and clearing of the word of God,) the same setteth himself upon a stage to be glouted upon by every evil eye; yea, he casteth himself headlong upon pikes, to be gored by every sharp tongue. For he that meddleth with men's religion in any part meddleth with their custom, nay, with their freehold; and though they find no content in that which they have, yet they cannot abide to hear of altering. Notwithstanding his royal heart was not daunted or discouraged for this or that colour, but stood resolute, as a statue immovable, and an anvil not easy to be beaten into plates, as one saith; he knew who had chosen him to be a soldier, or rather a captain; and being assured that the course which he intended made much for the glory of God, and the building up of his Church, he would not suffer it to be broken off for whatsoever speeches or practices. It doth certainly belong unto kings, yea, it doth specially belong unto them, to have care of religion, yea, to know it aright, yea, to profess it zealously, yea, to promote it to the uttermost of their power. This is their glory before all nations which mean well, and this will bring unto them a far most excellent weight of glory in the day of the Lord Jesus. For the Scripture saith not in vain, Them that honour me I will honour: neither was it a vain word that Eusebius delivered long ago, That piety toward God was the weapon, and the only weapon, that both preserved Constantine's person, and avenged him of his enemies.

But now what piety without truth? What truth, what saving truth, without the word of God? What word of God, whereof we may be sure, without the Scripture? The Scriptures we are commanded to search, John v. 39. Isai. viii. 20. They are commanded that searched and studied them, Acts xvii. 11. and viii. 28, 29. They are reproved that were unskilful in them, or slow to believe them, Matt. xxii. 29. Luke xxiv. 25. They can make us wise unto salvation, 2 Tim. iii. 15. If we be ignorant, they will instruct us; if out of the way, they will bring us home; if out of order, they will reform us; if in heaviness, comfort us; if dull, quicken us; if cold, inflame us. Tolle, lege; tolle, lege; Take up and read, take up and read the Scriptures, (for unto them was the direction,) it was said unto St. Augustine by a supernatural voice. Whatsoever is in the Scriptures, believe me, saith the same St. Augustine, is high and divine; there is verily truth, and a doctrine most fit for the refreshing and renewing of men's minds, and truly so tempered, that every one may draw from thence that which is sufficient for him, if he come to draw with a devout and pious mind, as true religion requireth. Thus St. Augustine. And St. Hierome, Amæ Scripturas, et amabit te sapientia, &c. Love the Scriptures, and wisdom will love thee. And St. Cyrill against Julian, Even boys that are bred up in the Scriptures become most religious, &c. But what mention we three or four uses of the Scripture, whereas whatsoever is to be believed, or practised, or hoped for, is contained in them? or three or four sentences of the Fathers, since whosoever is worthy the name of a Father, from Christ's time downward, hath likewise written not only of the riches, but also of the perfection of the Scripture? I adore the fulness of the Scripture, saith Tertullian against Hermogenes. And again, to Apelles an heretick of the like stamp he saith, I do not admit that which thou bringest in (or concludest) of thine own (head or store, de tuo) without Scripture. So St. Justin Martyr before him; We must know by all means (saith he) that it is not lawful (or possible) to learn (any thing) of God or of right piety, save only out of the Prophets, who teach us by divine inspiration. So St. Basil after Tertullian, It is a manifest falling away from the faith, and a fault of presumption, either to reject any of those things that are written, or to bring in (upon the head of them, ἐκείνων) any of those things that are not written. We omit to cite to the same effect St. Cyrill Bishop of Jerusalem in his 4. Catech. St. Hierome against Helvidius, St. Augustine in his third book against the letters of Petilian, and in very many other places of his works. Also we forbear to descend to later Fathers, because we will not weary the reader. The Scriptures then being acknowledged to be so full and so perfect, how can we excuse ourselves of negligence, if we do not study them? of curiosity, if we be not content with them? Men talk much of εἰσεώνη, how many sweet and goodly things it had hanging on it; of the Philosopher's stone, that it turneth copper into gold; of Cornu-copia, that it had all things necessary for food in it; of Panaces the herb, that it was good for all diseases; of Catholicon the drug, that it is instead of all purges; of Vulcan's armour, that it was an armour of proof against all thrusts and all blows, &c. Well, that which they falsely or vainly attributed to these things for bodily good, we may justly and with full measure ascribe unto the Scripture for spiritual. It is not only an armour, but also a whole armoury of weapons, both offensive and defensive; whereby we may save ourselves, and put the enemy to flight. It is not an herb, but a tree, or rather a whole paradise of trees of life, which bring forth fruit every month, and the fruit thereof is for meat, and the leaves for medicine. It is not a pot of Manna, or a cruse of oil, which were for memory only, or for a meal's meat or two; but, as it were, a shower of heavenly bread sufficient for a whole host, be it never so great, and, as it were, a whole cellar full of oil vessels; whereby all our necessities may be provided for, and our debts discharged. In a word, it is a panary of wholesome food against fenowed traditions; a physician's shop (as St. Basil calls it) of preservatives against poisoned heresies; a pandect of profitable laws against rebellious spirits; a treasury of most costly jewels against beggarly rudiments; finally, a fountain of most pure water springing up unto everlasting life. And what marvel? the original thereof being from heaven, not from earth: the author being God, not man; the inditer, the Holy Spirit, not the wit of the Apostles or Propbets; the penmen, such as were sanctified from the womb, and endued with a principal portion of God's Spirit; the matter, verity, piety, purity, uprightness; the form, God's word, God's testimony, God's oracles, the word of truth, the word of salvation, &c.; the effects, light of understanding, stableness of persuasion, repentance from dead works, newness of life, holiness, peace, joy in the Holy Ghost; lastly, the end and reward of the study thereof, fellowship with the saints, participation of the heavenly nature, fruition of an inheritance immortal, undefiled, and that never shall fade away. Happy is the man that delighteth in the Scripture, and thrice happy that meditateth in it day and night.

But how shall men meditate in that which they cannot understand? How shall they understand that which is kept close in an unknown tongue? as it is written, Except I know the power of the voice, I shall be to him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian to me. The Apostle excepteth no tongue; not Hebrew the ancientest, not Greek the most copious, not Latin the finest. Nature taught a natural man to confess, that all of us in those tongues which we do not understand are plainly deaf; we may turn the deaf ear unto them. The Scythian counted the Athenian, whom he did not understand, barbarous; so the Roman did the Syrian, and the Jew: (even St. Hierome himself calleth the Hebrew tongue barbarous; belike, because it was strange to so many:) so the Emperor of Constantinople calleth the Latin tongue barbarous, though Pope Nicolas do storm at it: so the Jews long before Christ called all other nations Egnasim, which is little better than barbarous. Therefore as one complaineth that always in the Senate of Rome there was one or other that called for an interpreter; so lest the Church be driven to the like exigent, it is necessary to have translations in a readiness. Translation it is that openeth the window, to let in the light; that breaketh the shell, that we may eat the kernel; that putteth aside the curtain, that we may look into the most holy place; that removeth the cover of the well, that we may come by the water; even as Jacob rolled away the stone from the mouth of the well, by which means the flocks of Laban were watered. Indeed without translation into the vulgar tongue, the unlearned are but like children at Jacob's well (which was deep) without a bucket or something to draw with: or as that person mentioned by Esay, to whom when a sealed book was delivered with this motion, Read this, I pray thee, he was fain to make this answer, I cannot, for it is sealed.

While God would be known only in Jacob, and have his name great in Israel, and in none other place; while the dew lay on Gideon's fleece only, and all the earth besides was dry; then for one and the same people, which spake all of them the language of Canaan, that is, Hebrew, one and the same original in Hebrew was sufficient. But when the fullness of time drew near, that the Sun of righteousness, the Son of God, should come into the world, whom God ordained to be a reconciliation through faith in his blood, not of the Jew only, but also of the Greek, yea, of all them that were scattered abroad; then, lo, it pleased the Lord to stir up the spirit of a Greek prince, (Greek for descent and language.) even of Ptolemy Philadelph king of Egypt, to procure the translating of the book of God out of Hebrew into Greek. This is the translation of the Seventy interpreters, commonly so called, which prepared the way for our Saviour among the Gentiles by written preaching, as St. John Baptist did among the Jews by vocal. For the Grecians, being desirous of learning, were not wont to suffer books of worth to lie moulding in kings' libraries, but had many of their servants, ready scribes, to copy them out, and so they were dispersed and made common. Again the Greek tongue was well known and made familiar to most inhabitants in Asia by reason of the conquests that there the Grecians had made, as also by the colonies which thither they had sent. For the same causes also it was well understood in many places of Europe, yea, and of Africk too. Therefore the word of God, being set forth in Greek, becometh hereby like a candle set upon a candlestick, which giveth light to all that are in the house; or like a proclamation sounded forth in the marketplace, which most men presently take knowledge of; and therefore that language was fittest to contain the Scriptures, both for the first preachers of the Gospel to appeal unto for witness, and for the learners also of those times to make search and trial by. It is certain, that that translation was not so sound and so perfect, but that it needed in many places correction; and who had been so sufficient for this work as the Apostles or apostolick men? Yet it seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to them to take that which they found, (the same being for the greatest part true and sufficient,) rather than by making a new, in that new world and green age of the Church, to expose themselves to many exceptions and cavillations, as though they made a translation to serve their own turn; and therefore bearing witness to themselves, their witness not to be regarded. This may be supposed to be some cause, why the translation of the Seventy was allowed to pass for current. Notwithstanding, though it was commended generally, yet it did not fully content the learned, no not of the Jews. For not long after Christ, Aquila fell in hand with a new translation, and after him Theodotion, and after him Symmachus: yea, there was a fifth, and a sixth edition, the authors whereof were not known. These with the Seventy made up the Hexapla, and were worthily and to great purpose compiled together by Origen. Howbeit the edition of the Seventy went away with the credit, and therefore not only was placed in the midst by Origen, (for the worth and excellency thereof above the rest, as Epiphanius gathereth,) but also was used by the Greek Fathers for the ground and foundation of their commentaries. Yea, Epiphanius abovenamed doth attribute so much unto it, that he holdeth the authors thereof not only for interpreters, but also for prophets in some respect: and Justinian the Emperor, injoining the Jews his subjects to use especially the translation of the Seventy, rendereth this reason thereof, Because they were, as it were, enlightened with propheticall grace. Yet for all that, as the Egyptians are said of the Prophet to be men and not God, and their horses flesh and not spirit: so it is evident, (and St. Hierome affirmeth as much,) that the Seventy were interpreters, they were not prophets. They did many things well, as learned men; but yet as men they stumbled and fell, one while through oversight, another while through ignorance; yea, sometimes they may be noted to add to the original, and sometimes to take from it: which made the Apostles to leave them many times, when they left the Hebrew, and to deliver the sense thereof according to the truth of the word, as the Spirit gave them utterance. This may suffice touching the Greek translations of the Old Testament.

There were also within a few hundred years after Christ translations many into the Latin tongue: for this tongue also was very fit to convey the Law and the Gospel by, because in those times very many countries of the West, yea of the South, East, and North, spake or understood Latin, being made provinces to the Romans. But now the Latin translations were too many to be all good: for they were infinite; (Latini interpretes nullo modo numerari possunt, saith St. Augustine.) Again, they were not out of the Hebrew fountain, (we speak of the Latin translations of the Old Testament,) but out of the Greek stream; therefore the Greek being not altogether clear, the Latin derived from it must needs be muddy. This moved St. Hierome, a most learned Father, and the best linguist without controversy of his age, or of any other that went before him, to undertake the translating of the Old Testament out of the very fountains themselves; which he performed with that evidenc of great learning, judgment, industry, and faithfulness, that he hath for ever bound the Church unto him in a debt of special remembrance and thankfulness.

Now though the Church were thus furnished with Greek and Latin translations, even before the faith of Christ was generally embraced in the Empire: (for the learned know, that even in St. Hierome's time the Consul of Rome and his wife were both Ethnickes, and about the same time the greatest part of the Senate also:) yet for all that the godly learned were not content to have the Scriptures in the language which themselves understood, Greek and Latin, (as the good lepers were not content to fare well themselves, but acquainted their neighbours with the store that God had sent, that they also might provide for themselves;) but also for the behoof and edifying of the unlearned, which hungered and thirsted after righteousness, and had souls to be saved as well as they, they provided translations into the vulgar for their countrymen, inasmuch that most nations under heaven did shortly after their conversion hear Christ speaking unto them in their mother tongue, not by the voice of their minister only, but also by the written word translated. If any doubt hereof, he may be satisfied by examples enough, if enough will serve the turn. First, St. Hierome saith, Multarum gentium linguæ Scriptura ante translata docet falsa esse quæ addita sunt, &c. that is, The Scripture being translated before in the languages of many nations doth shew that those things that were added (by Lucian or Hiesychius) are false. So St. Hierome in that place. The same Hierome elsewhere affirmeth that he, the time was, had set forth the translation of the Seventy, sive linguæ hominibus; that is, for his countrymen of Dalmatia. Which words not only Erasmus doth understand to purport, that St. Hierome translated the Scripture into the Dalmatian tongue; but also Sixtus Senensis, and Alphonsus a Castro, (that we speak of no more,) men not to be excepted against by them of Rome, do ingenuously confess as much. So St. Chrysostome, that lived in St. Hierome's time, giveth evidence with him: The doctrine of St. John (saith he) did not in such sort (as the Philosophers' did) vanish away: but the Syrians, Egyptians, Indians, Persians, Ethiopians, and infinite other nations, being barbarous people, translated it into their (mother) tongue, and have learned to be (true) Philosophers, he meaneth Christians. To this may be added Theodore, as next unto him both for antiquity, and for learning. His words be these, Every country that is under the sun is full of these words, (of the Apostles and Prophets;) and the Hebrew tongue (he meaneth the Scriptures in the Hebrew tongue) is turned not only into the language of the Grecians, but also of the Romans, and Egyptians, and Persians, and Indians, and Armenians, and Seythians, and Sauromatians, and, briefly, into all the languages that any nation useth. So he. In like manner Ulpilas is reported by Paulus Diaconus and Isidore, and before them by Sozomen, to have translated the Scriptures into the Gothick tongue: John Bishop of Sevil by Vasseus, to have turned them into Arabick about the Year of our Lord 717: Beda by Cistertiensis, to have turned a great part of them into Saxon: Efnard by Trithemius, to have abridged the French Psalter (as Beda had done the Hebrew) about the year 800: King Alured by the said Cistertiensis, to have turned the Psalter into Saxon: Methodius by Aventinus (printed at Ingolstad) to have turned the Scriptures into Slavonian: Valdo Bishop of Frising by Beatus Rhenanus, to have caused about that time the Gospels to be translated into Dutch rhyme, yet extant in the library of Corbinian: Valdus by divers, to have turned them himself, or to have gotten them turned, into French, about the Year 1160: Charles the Fifth of that name, surnamed The wise, to have caused them to be turned into French about 200 years after Valdus' time; of which translation there be many copies yet extant, as witnesseth Beroaldus. Much about that time, even in our King Richard the Second's days, John Trevisa translated them into English, and many English Bibles in written hand are yet to be seen with divers; translated, as it is very probable, in that age. So the Syrian translation of the New Testament is in most learned men's libraries, of Widminstadius' setting forth; and the Psalter in Arabick is with many, of Augustinus Nebiensis' setting forth. So Postel affirmeth, that in his travel he saw the Gospels in the Ethiopian tongue: And Ambrose Thesius alledgeth the Psalter of the Indians, which he testifieth to have been set forth by Potken in Syrian characters. So that to have the Scriptures in the mother tongue is not a quaint conceit lately taken up, either by the Lord Cromwell in England, or by the Lord Radeville in Polony, or by the Lord Ungnadius in the Emperor's dominion, but hath been thought upon, and put in practice of old, even from the first times of the conversion of any nation; no doubt, because it was esteemed most profitable to cause faith to grow in men's hearts the sooner, and to make them to be able to say with the words of the Psalm, As we have heard, so we have seen.

Now the Church of Rome would seem at the length to bear a motherly affection toward her children, and to allow them the Scriptures in the mother tongue: but indeed it is a gift, not deserving to be called a gift, an unprofitable gift: they must first get a licence in writing before they may use them; and to get that, they must approve themselves to their Confessor, that is, to be such as are, if not frozen in the dregs, yet soured with the leaven of their superstition. Howbeit it seemed too much to Clement the Eighth, that there should be any licence granted to have them in the vulgar tongue, and therefore he overruleth and frustrateth the grant of Pius the Fourth. So much are they afraid of the light of the Scripture, (Lucifuge Scripturarum, as Tertullian speaketh,) that they will not trust the people with it, no not as it is set forth by their own sworn men, no not with the licence of their own Bishops and Inquisitors. Yea, so unwilling they are to communicate the Scriptures to the people's understanding in any sort, that they are not ashamed to confess, that we forced them to translate it into English against their wills. This seemeth to argue a bad cause, or a bad conscience, or both. Sure we are, that it is not he that hath good gold, that is afraid to bring it to the touchstone, but he that hath the counterfeit; neither is it the true man that shunneth the light, but the malefactor, lest his deeds should be reproved; neither is it the plaine dealing merchant that is unwilling to have the weights, or the meteyard, brought in place, but he that useth deceit. But we will let them alone for this fault, and return to translation.

Many men's mouths have been opened a good while (and yet are not stopped) with speeches about the translation so long in hand, or rather perusals of translations made before: and ask what may be the reason, what the necessity, of the employment. Hath the Church been deceived, say they, all this while? Hath her sweet bread been mingled with heaven, her silver with dross, her wine with water, her milk with lime? (lacte gypsum male miscetur, saith St. Ireneus.) We hoped that we had been in the right way, that we had had the Oracles of God delivered unto us, and that though all the world had cause to be offended, and to complain, yet that we had none. Hath the nurse holden out the breast, and nothing but wind in it? Hath the bread been delivered by the Fathers of the Church, and the same proved to be lapidosus, as Seneca speaketh? What is it to handle the word of God deceitfully, if this be not? Thus certain brethren. Also the adversaries of Judah and Jerusalem, like Sanballat in Nehemiah, mock, as we hear, both at the work and workmen, saying, What do these weak Jews, &c. will they make the stones whole again out of the heaps of dust which are burnt? although they build, yet if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stony wall. Was their translation good before? Why do they now mend it? Was it not good? Why then was it obtruded to the people? Yea, why did the Catholics (meaning Popish Romanists) always go in jeopardy for refusing to go to hear it? Nay, if it must be translated into English, Catholics are fittest to do it. They have learning, and they know when a thing is well, they can manum de tabula. We will answer them both briefly: and the former, being brethren, thus with St. Hierome, Dannamus veteres? Minime, sed post primum studia in domo Domini quod possumus laboramus. That is, Do we condemn the ancient? In no case: but after the endeavours of them that were before us, we take the best pains we can in the house of God. As if he said, Being provoked by the example of the learned that lived before my time, I have thought it my duty to assay, whether my talent in the knowledge of the tongues may be profitable in any measure to God's Church, lest I should seem to have laboured in them in vain, and lest I should be thought to glory in men (although ancient) above that which was in them. Thus St. Hierome may be thought to speak.

And to the same effect say we, that we are so far off from condemning any of their labours that travelled before us in this kind, either in this land, or beyond sea, either in King Henry's time, or King Edward's, (if there were any translation, or correction of a translation, in his time,) or Queen Elizabeth's of ever renowned memory, that we acknowledge them to have been raised up of God for the building and furnishing of his Church, and that they deserve to be had of us and of posterity in everlasting remembrance. The judgment of Aristotle is worthy and well known: If Timotheus had not been, we had not had much sweet musick: But if Phrynis (Timotheus' master) had not been, we had not had Timotheus. Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that break the ice, and give the onset upon that which helpeth forward to the saving of souls. Now what can be more available thereto, than to deliver God's book unto God's people in a tongue which they understand? Since of an hidden treasure, and of a fountain that is sealed, there is no profit, as Ptolemy Philadelph wrote to the Rabbins or masters of the Jews, as witnesseth Epiphanius: and as St. Augustine saith, A man had rather be with his dog than with a stranger (whose tongue is strange unto him.) Yet for all that, as nothing is begun and perfected at the same time, and the latter thoughts are thought to be the wiser: so, if we building upon their foundation that went before us, and being holpen by their labours, do endeavour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike us; they, we persuade ourselves, if they were alive, would thank us. The vintage of Abiezer, that strake the stroke: yet the gleanings of grapes of Ephraim was not to be despised. See Judges viii. 2. Joash the king of Israel did not satisfy himself till he had smitten the ground three times; and yet he offended the Prophet for giving over then. Aquila, of whom we spake before, translated the Bible as carefully and as skilfully as he could; and yet he thought good to go over it again, and then it got the credit with the Jews, to be called κατ' ἀκριβειαν, that is, accurately done, as St. Hierome witnesseth. How many books of profane learning have been gone over again and again, by the same translators, by others? Of one and the same book of Aristotle's Ethicks there are extant not so few as six or seven several translations. Now if this cost may be bestowed upon the gourd, which affordeth us a little shade, and which to day flourisheth, but to morrow is cut down; what may we bestow, nay, what ought we not to bestow, upon the vine, the fruit whereof maketh glad the conscience of man, and the stem whereof abideth for ever? And this is the word of God, which we translate. What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord. Tanti vitreum, quanti verum margaritum! (saith Tertullian.) If a toy of glass be of that reckoning with us, how ought we to value the true pearl! Therefore let no man's eye be evil, because his Majesty's is good; neither let any be grieved, that we have a Prince that seeketh the increase of the spiritual wealth of Israel; (let Sanballats and Tobiah's do so, which therefore do bear their just reproof;) but let us rather bless God from the ground of our heart for working this religious care in him to have the translations of the Bible maturely considered of and examined. For by this means it cometh to pass, that whatsoever is sound already, (and all is sound for substance in one or other of our editions, and the worst of ours far better than their authentick vulgar) the same will shine as gold more brightly, being rubbed and polished; also, if any thing be halting, or superfluous, or not so agreeable to the original, the same may be corrected, and the truth set in place. And what can the King command to be done, that will bring him more true honour than this? And wherein could they that have been set a work approve their duty to the King, yea, their obedience to God, and love to his Saints, more, than by yielding their service, and all that is within them, for the furnishing of the work? But besides all this, they were the principal motives of it, and therefore ought least to quarrel it. For the very historical truth is, that upon the importunate petitions of the Puritanes at his Majesty's coming to this crown, the conference at Hampton-court having been appointed for hearing their complaints, when by force of reason they were put from all other grounds, they had recourse at the last to this shift, that they could not with good conscience subscribe to the communion book, since it maintained the Bible as it was there translated, which was, as they said, a most corrupted translation. And although this was judged to be but a very poor and empty shift, yet even hereupon did his Majesty begin to bethink himself of the good that might ensue by a new translation, and presently after gave order for this translation which is now presented unto thee. Thus much to satisfy our scrupulous brethren.

Now to the latter we answer, That we do not deny, nay, we affirm and avow, that the very meanest translation of the Bible in English, set forth by men of our profession, (for we have seen none of their's of the whole Bible as yet) containeth the word of God, nay, is the word of God: As the King's speech which he uttered in Parliament, being translated into French, Dutch, Italian, and Latin, is still the King's speech, though it be not interpreted by every translator with the like grace, nor peradventure so fitly for phrase, nor so expressly for sense, every where. For it is confessed, that things are to take their denomination of the greater part; and a natural man could say, Verum ubi multa nitent in carmine, non ego paucis offendor maculis, &c. A man may be counted a virtuous man, though he have made many slips in his life, (else there were none virtuous, for in many things we offend all,) also a comely man and lovely, though he have some warts upon his hand; yea, not only freckles upon his face, but also scars. No cause therefore why the word translated should be denied to be the word, or forbidden to be current, notwithstanding that some imperfections and blemishes may be noted in the setting forth of it. For what ever was perfect under the sun, where Apostles or apostolick men, that is, men endued with an extraordinary measure of God's Spirit, and privileged with the privilege of infallibility, had not their hand? The Romanists therefore in refusing to hear, and daring to burn the word translated, did no less than despite the Spirit of grace, from whom originally it proceeded, and whose sense and meaning, as well as man's weakness would enable, it did express. Judge by an example or two.

Plutarch writeth, that after that Rome had been burnt by the Gauls, they fell soon to build it again: but doing it in haste, they did not cast the streets, nor proportion the houses, in such comely fashion, as had been most sightly and convenient. Was Cataline therefore an honest man, or a good patriot, that sought to bring it to a combustion? Or Nero a good Prince, that did indeed set it on fire? So by the story of Ezra and the prophecy of Haggai it may be gathered, that the temple built by Zerubbabel after the return from Babylon was by no means to be compared to the former built by Solomon: for they that remembered the former wept when they considered the latter. Notwithstanding might this latter either have been abhorred and forsaken by the Jews, or profaned by the Greeks? The like we are to think of translations. The translation of the Seventy dissenteth from the Original in many places, neither doth it come near it for perspicuity, gravity, majesty. Yet which of the Apostles did condemn it? Condemn it? Nay, they used it, (as it is apparent, and as St. Hierome and most learned men do confess;) which they would not have done, nor by their example of using of it so grace and commend it to the Church, if it had been unworthy the appellation and name of the word of God. And whereas they urge for their second defence of their vilifying and abusing of the English Bibles, or some pieces thereof, which they meet with, for that hereticks forsooth were the authors of the translations: (hereticks they call us by the same right that they call themselves catholicks, both being wrong:) we marvel what divinity taught them so. We are sure Tertullian was of another mind: Ex personis probamus fidem, an ex fide personas? Do we try men's faith by their persons? We should try their persons by their faith. Also St. Augustine was of another mind: for he, lighting upon certain rules made by Tychonius a Donatist for the better understanding of the word, was not ashamed to make use of them, yea, to insert them into his own book, with giving commendation to them so far forth as they were worthy to be commended, as is to be seen in St. Augustine's third book De Doctr. Christ. To be short, Origen, and the whole Church of God for certain hundred years, were of another mind: for they were so far from treading under foot (much more from burning) the translation of Aquila a proselyte, that is, one that had turned Jew, of Symmachus, and Theodotion, both Ebionites, that is, most vile hereticks, that they joined them together with the Hebrew original, and the translation of the Seventy, (as hath been before signified out of Epiphanius,) and set them forth openly to be considered of and perused by all. But we weary the unlearned, who need not know so much; and trouble the learned, who know it already.

Yet before we end, we must answer a third cavil and objection of their's against us, for altering and amending our translations so oft; wherein truly they deal hardly and strangely with us. For to whom ever was it imputed for a fault, (by such as were wise,) to go over that which he had done and to amend it where he saw cause? St. Augustine was not afraid to exhort St. Hierome to a Palinodia or recantation. The same St. Augustine was not ashamed to retractate, we might say, revoke, many things that had passed him, and doth even glory that he seeth his infirmities. If we will be sons of the truth, we must consider what it speaketh, and trample upon our own credit, yea, and upon other men's too, if either be any way an hinderance to it. This to the cause. Then to the persons we say, that of all men they ought to be most silent in this case. For what varieties have they, and what alterations have they made, not only of their service books, portesses, and breviaries, but also of their Latin translation? The service book supposed to be made by St. Ambrose, (Officium Ambrosianum), was a great while in special use and request: but Pope Adrian, calling a council with the aid of Charles the Emperor, abolished it, yea, burnt it, and commanded the service book of St. Gregory universally to be used. Well, Officium Gregorianum gets by this means to be in credit; but doth it continue without change or altering? No, the very Roman service was of two fashions; the new fashion, and the old, the one used in one Church, and the other in another; as is to be seen in Pamelius a Romanist, his preface before Micrologus. The same Pamelius reporteth out of Radulphus de Rivo, that about the year of our Lord 1277 Pope Nicolas the Third removed out of the churches of Rome the more ancient books (of service,) and brought into use the missals of the Friars Minorites, and commanded them to be observed there; inasmuch that about an hundred years after, when the above named Radulphus happened to be at Rome, he found all the books to be new, of the new stamp. Neither was there this chopping and changing in the more ancient times only, but also of late. Pius Quintus himself confesseth, that every bishoprick almost had a peculiar kind of service, most unlike to that which others had; which moved him to abolish all other breviaries, though never so ancient, and privileged and published by Bishops in their Dioceses, and to establish and ratify that only which was of his own setting forth in the year 1568. Now when the Father of their Church, who gladly would heal the sore of the daughter of his people softly and slightly, and make the best of it, findeth so great fault with them for their odds and jarring; we hope the children have no great cause to vaunt of their uniformity. But the difference that appeareth between our translations, and our often correcting of them, is the thing that we are specially charged with; let us see therefore whether they themselves be without fault this way, (if it be to be counted a fault to correct,) and whether they be fit men to throw stones at us: O tandem major parcas insane minori: They that are less sound themselves ought not to object infirmities to others. If we should tell them, that Valla, Stapulensis, Erasmus, and Vives, found fault with their vulgar translation, and consequently wished the same to be mended, or a new one to be made; they would answer peradventure, that we produced their enemies for witnesses against them; albeit they were in no other sort enemies, than as St. Paul was to the Galatians, for telling them the truth: and it were to be wished, that they had dared to tell it them plainlier and oftener. But what will they say to this, That Pope Leo the Tenth allowed Erasmus' translation of the New Testament, so much different from the vulgar, by his apostolick letter and bull? That the same Leo exhorted Pagnine to translate the whole Bible, and bare whatsoever charges was necessary for the work? Surely, as the apostle reasoneth to the Hebrews, that if the former Law and Testament had been sufficient, there had been no need of the latter: so we may say, that if the old vulgar had been at all points allowable, to small purpose had labour and charges been undergone about framing of a new. If they say, it was one Pope's private opinion, and that he consulted only himself; then we are able to go further with them, and to aver, that more of their chief men of all sorts, even their own Trent champions, Paiva and Vega, and their own inquisitor Hieronimus ab Oleastro, and their own Bishop Isidorus Clarius, and their own Cardinal Thomas a rio Cajetan, do either make new translations themselves, or follow new ones of other men's making, or note the vulgar interpreter for halting, none of them fear to dissent from him, nor yet to except against him. And call they this an uniform tenor of text and judgment about the text, so many of their worthies disclaiming the now received conceit? Nay, we will yet come nearer the quick. Doth not their Paris edition differ from the Lovain, and Hentenius's from them both, and yet all of them allowed by authority? Nay, doth not Sixtus Quintus confess, that certain Catholics (he meaneth certain of his own side) were in such an humour of translating the Scriptures into Latin, that Satan taking occasion by them, though they thought of no such matter, did strive what he could, out of so uncertain and manifold a variety of translations, so to mingle all things, that nothing might seem to be left certain and firm in them, &c.? Nay further, did not the same Sixtus ordain by an inviolable decree, and that with the counsel and consent of his Cardinals, that the Latin edition of the Old and New Testament, which the council of Trent would have to be authentick, is the same without controversy which he then set forth, being diligently corrected and printed in the printinghouse of Vatican? Thus Sixtus in his preface before his Bible. And yet Clement the Eighth, his immediate successor to account of, publisheth another edition of the Bible, containing in it infinite differences from that of Sixtus, and many of them weighty and material; and yet this must be authentick by all means. What is to have the faith of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ with yea and nay, if this be not? Again, what is sweet harmony and consent, if this be? Therefore, as Demaratus of Corinth advised a great King, before he talked of the dissensions among the Greeks, to compose his domestick broils; (for at that time his queen and his son and heir were at deadly feud with him) so all the while that our adversaries do make so many and so various editions themselves, and do jar so much about the worth and authority of them, they can with no shew of equity challenge us for changing and correcting.

THE TRANSLATORS TO THE READER.

But it is high time to leave them, and to shew in brief what we proposed to ourselves, and what course we held, in this our perusal and survey of the Bible. Truly, good Christian Reader, we never thought from the beginning that we should need to make a new translation, nor yet to make of a bad one a good one; (for then the imputation of Sixtus had been true in some sort, that our people had been fed with gall of dragons instead of wine, with wheal instead of milk;) but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones one principal good one, not justly to be excepted against; that hath been our endeavour, that our mark. To that purpose there were many chosen, that were greater in other men's eyes than in their own, and that sought the truth rather than their own praise. Again, they came, or were thought to come, to the work, not exercendi causa, (as one saith,) but exercitati, that is, learned, not to learn; for the chief overseer and ἐργοδῶν under his Majesty, to whom not only we, but also our whole Church was much bound, knew by his wisdom, which thing also Nazianzen taught so long ago, that it is a preposterous order to teach first, and to learn after; that τὸ ἐν πῶθι κεραμίαν μαρθάνειν, to learn and practise together, is neither commendable for the workman, nor safe for the work. Therefore such were thought upon, as could say modestly with St. Hierome, Et Hebraeum sermonem ex parte didicimus, et in Latino pene ab ipsis incunabulis, dē. detriti sumus; Both we have learned the Hebrew tongue in part, and in the Latin we have been exercised almost from our very cradle. St. Hierome maketh no mention of the Greek tongue, wherein yet he did excel; because he translated not the Old Testament out of Greek, but out of Hebrew. And in what sort did these assemble? In the trust of their own knowledge, or of their sharpness of wit, or deepness of judgment, as it were in an arm of flesh? At no hand. They trusted in him that hath the key of David, opening, and no man shutting; they prayed to the Lord, the Father of our Lord, to the effect that St. Augustine did; O let thy Scriptures be my pure delight; let me not be deceived in them, neither let me deceive by them. In this confidence, and with this devotion, did they assemble together; not too many, lest one should trouble another; and yet many, lest many things haply might escape them. If you ask what they had before them; truly it was the Hebrew text of the Old Testament, the Greek of the New. These are the two golden pipes, or rather conduits, wherethrough the olivebranches empty themselves into the gold. St. Augustine calleth them precedent, or original, tongues; St. Hierome, fountains. The same St. Hierome affirmeth, and Gratian hath not spared to put it into his decree, That as the credit of the old books (he meaneth of the Old Testament) is to be tried by the Hebrew volumes; so of the new by the Greek tongue, he meaneth by the original Greek. If truth be to be tried by these tongues, then whence should a translation be made, but out of them? These tongues therefore (the Scriptures, we say, in those tongues) we set before us to translate, being the tongues wherein God was pleased to speak to his Church by his Prophets and Apostles. Neither did we run over the work with that posting haste that the Septuagint did, if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in seventy two days; neither were we barred or hindered from going over it again, having once done it, like St. Hierome, if that be true which himself reporteth, that he could no sooner write any thing, but presently it was caught from him, and published, and he could not have leave to mend it: neither, to be short, were we the first that fell in hand with translating the Scripture into English, and consequently destitute of former helps, as it is written of Origen, that he was the first in a manner, that put his hand to write commentaries upon the Scriptures, and therefore no marvel if he overshot himself many times. None of these things: The work hath not been huddled up in seventy two days, but hath cost the workmen, as light as it seemeth, the pains of twice seven times seventy two days, and more. Matters of such weight and consequence are to be speeded with maturity: for in a business of moment a man feareth not the blame of convenient slackness. Neither did we think much to consult the translators or commentators, Chaldee, Hebrew, Syrian, Greek, or Latin; no, nor the Spanish, French, Italian, or Dutch; neither did we disdain to revise that which we had done, and to bring back to the anvil that which we had hammered: but having and using as great helps as were needful, and fearing no reproach for slowness, nor coveting praise for expedition, we have at length, through the good hand of the Lord upon us, brought the work to that pass that you see.

Some peradventure would have no variety of senses to be set in the margin, lest the authority of the Scriptures for deciding of controversies by that shew of uncertainty should somewhat be shaken. But we hold their judgment not to be so sound in this point. For though whatsoever things are necessary are manifest, as St. Chrysostome saith; and, as St. Augustine, in those things that are plainly set down in the Scriptures all such matters are found, that concern faith, hope, and charity: Yet for all that it cannot be dissembled, that partly to exercise and whet our wits, partly to wean the curious from lothing of them for their every where plainness, partly also to stir up our devotion to crave the assistance of God's Spirit by prayer, and lastly, that we might be forward to seek aid of our brethren by conference, and never scorn those that be not in all respects so complete as they should be, being to seek in many things ourselves, it hath pleased God in his Divine Providence here and there to scatter words and sentences of that difficulty and doubtfulness, not in doctrinal points that concern salvation, (for in such it hath been vouched that the Scriptures are plain,) but in matters of less moment, that fearfulness would better beseech us than confidence, and if we will resolve, to resolve upon modesty with St. Augustine, (though not in this same case altogether, yet upon the same ground,) Melius est dubitare de occultis, quam litigare de incertis: It is better to make doubt of those things which are secret, than to strive about those things that are uncertain. There be many words in the Scriptures, which be never found there but once, (having neither brother nor neighbour, as the Hebrews speak,) so that we cannot be holpen by conference of places. Again, there be many rare names of certain birds, beasts, and precious stones, &c. concerning which the Hebrews themselves are so divided among themselves for judgment, that they may seem to have defined this or that, rather because they would say something, than because they were sure of that which they said, as St. Hierome somewhere saith of the Septuagint. Now in such a case doth not a margin do well to admonish the Reader to seek further, and not to conclude or dogmatize upon this or that peremptorily? For as it is a fault of incredulity, to doubt of those things that are evident; so to determine of such things as the Spirit of God hath left (even in the judgment of the judicious) questionable, can be no less than presumption. Therefore as St. Augustine saith, that variety of translations is profitable for the finding out of the sense of the Scriptures; so diversity of signification and sense in the margin, where the text is not so clear, must needs do good; yea, is necessary, as we are persuaded. We know that Sixtus Quintus expressly forbiddeth that any variety of readings of their vulgar edition should be put in the margin; (which though it be not altogether the same thing to that we have in hand, yet it looketh that way;) but we think he hath not all of his own side his favourers for this conceit. They that are wise had rather have their judgments at liberty in differences of readings, than to be captivated to one, when it may be the other. If they were sure that their high priest had all laws shut up in his breast, as Paul the Second bragged, and that he were as free from error by special privilege, as the dictators of Rome were made by law inviolable, it were another matter; then his word were an oracle, his opinion a decision. But the eyes of the world are now open, God be thanked, and have been a great while; they find that he is subject to the same affections and infirmities that others be, that his body is subject to wounds; and therefore so much as he proveth, not as much as he claimeth, they grant and embrace.

Another thing we think good to admonish thee of, gentle Reader, that we have not tied ourselves to an uniformity of phrasing, or to an identity of words, as some peradventure would wish that we had done, because they observe, that some learned men somewhere have been as exact as they could that way. Truly, that we might not vary from the sense of that which we had translated before, if the word signified the same thing in both places, (for there be some words that be not of the same sense every where,) we were especially careful, and made a conscience according to our duty. But that we should express the same notion in the same particular word; as for example, if we translate the Hebrew or Greek word once by purpose, never to call it intent; if one where journeying, never travelling; if one where think, never suppose; if one where pain, never ache; if one where joy, never gladness, &c. thus to mince the matter, we thought to savour more of curiosity than wisdom, and that rather it would breed scorn in the atheist, than bring profit to the godly reader. For is the kingdom of God become words or syllables? Why should we be in bondage to them, if we may be free? use one precisely, when we may use another no less fit as commodiously? A godly Father in the primitive time shewed himself greatly moved, that one of newfangledness called κραββάτον, σκίμπος, though the difference be little or none; and another reporteth, that he was much abused for turning eucurbita (to which reading the people had been used) into hedera. Now if this happen in better times, and upon so small occasions, we might justly fear hard censure, if generally we should make verbal and unnecessary changings. We might also be charged (by scoffers) with some unequal dealing towards a great number of good English words. For as it is written of a certain great Philosopher, that he should say, that those logs were happy that were made images to be worshipped; for their fellows, as good as they, lay for blocks behind the fire: so if we should say, as it were, unto certain words, Stand up higher, have a place in the Bible always; and to others of like quality, Get you hence, be banished for ever; we might be taxed peradventure with St. James's words, namely, To be partial in ourselves, and judges of evil thoughts. Add hereunto, that niceness in words was always counted the next step to trifling; and so was to be curious about names too: also that we cannot follow a better pattern for elocution than God himself; therefore he using divers words in his holy writ, and indifferently for one thing in nature: we, if we will not be superstitious, may use the same liberty in our English versions out of Hebrew and Greek, for that copy or store that he hath given us. Lastly, we have on the one side avoided the scrupulosity of the Puritans, who leave the old Ecclesiastical words, and betake them to other, as when they put washing for baptism, and congregation instead of Church: as also on the other side we have shunned the obscurity of the Papists, in their azymes, tunike, rational, holocausts, prepuce, pasche, and a number of such like, whereof their late translation is full, and that of purpose to darken the sense, that since they must needs translate the Bible, yet by the language thereof it may be kept from being understood. But we desire that the Scripture may speak like itself, as in the language of Canaan, that it may be understood even of the very vulgar.

Many other things we might give thee warning of, gentle Reader, if we had not exceeded the measure of a preface already. It remaineth that we commend thee to God, and to the Spirit of his grace, which is able to build further than we can ask or think. He removeth the scales from our eyes, the veil from our hearts, opening our wits that we may understand his word, enlarging our hearts, yea, correcting our affections, that we may love it above gold and silver, yea, that we may love it to the end. Ye are brought unto fountains of living water which ye digged not; do not cast earth into them, with the Philistines, neither prefer broken pits before them, with the wicked Jews. Others have laboured, and you may enter into their labours. O receive not so great things in vain: O despise not so great salvation. Be not like swine to tread under foot so precious things, neither yet like dogs to tear and abuse holy things. Say not to our Saviour with the Gergesites, Depart out of our coasts; neither yet with Esau sell your birthright for a mess of pottage. If light be come into the world, love not darkness more than light: if food, if clothing, be offered, go not naked, starve not yourselves. Remember the advice of Nazianzene, It is a grievous thing (or dangerous) to neglect a great fair, and to seek to make markets afterwards: also the encouragement of St. Chrysostome, It is altogether impossible, that he that is sober (and watchful) should at any time be neglected: lastly, the admonition and menacing of St. Augustine, They that despise God's will inviting them shall feel God's will taking vengeance of them. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God; but a blessed thing it is, and will bring us to everlasting blessedness in the end, when God speaketh unto us, to hearken; when he setteth his word before us, to read it; when he stretcheth out his hand and calleth, to answer, Here am I, here we are to do thy will, O God. The Lord work a care and conscience in us to know him and serve him that we may be acknowledged of him at the appearing of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, to whom with the Holy Ghost be all praise and thanksgiving. Amen.

THE TWO-VERSION BIBLE

THE OLD TESTAMENT

PREFACE TO THE REVISED VERSION OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.*

THE Revision of the Authorised Version was undertaken in consequence of a Resolution passed by both houses of the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury, as has been fully explained in the Preface to the Revised Version of the New Testament, which was first published in May 1881. When the two Companies were appointed for carrying out this work, the following General Principles, among others, were laid down by the Revision Committee of Convocation for their guidance:—

‘1. To introduce as few alterations as possible into the Text of the Authorised Version consistently with faithfulness.’

‘2. To limit, as far as possible, the expression of such alterations to the language of the Authorised and earlier English Versions.’

‘4. That the Text to be adopted be that for which the evidence is decidedly preponderating; and that when the Text so adopted differs from that from which the Authorised Version was made, the alteration be indicated in the margin.’

‘7. To revise the headings of chapters and pages, paragraphs, italics, and punctuation.’

In order to shew the manner in which the Old Testament Company have endeavoured to carry out their instructions, it will be convenient to treat the subjects mentioned in the foregoing rules in a somewhat different order.

It will be observed that in Rule 4 the word ‘Text’ is used in a different sense from that in Rule 1, and in the case of the Old Testament denotes the Hebrew or Aramaic original of the several books. In this respect the task of the Revisers has been much simpler than that which the New Testament Company had before them. The Received, or, as it is commonly called, the Massoretic Text of the Old Testament Scriptures has come down to us in manuscripts which are of no very great antiquity, and which all belong to the same family or recension<sup>1</sup>. That other recensions were at one time in existence is probable from the variations in the Ancient Versions, the oldest of which, namely the Greek or Septuagint, was made, at least in part, some two centuries before the Christian era. But as the state of knowledge on the subject is not at present such as to justify any attempt at an entire reconstruction of the text on the authority of the Versions, the Revisers have thought it most prudent to adopt the Massoretic Text as the basis of their work, and to depart from it, as the Authorised Translators had done<sup>2</sup>, only in exceptional cases. With regard to the variations in the Massoretic Text itself, the Revisers have endeavoured to translate what appeared to them to be the best reading in the text, and where the alternative reading seemed sufficiently probable or important they have placed it in the margin. In some few instances of extreme difficulty a reading has been adopted on the authority of the Ancient Versions, and the departure from the Massoretic Text recorded in the margin. In other cases, where the versions appeared to supply a very probable though not so necessary a correction of the text, the text has been left and the variation indicated in the margin only.

In endeavouring to carry out as fully as possible the spirit of Rules 1 and 2, the Revisers have borne in mind that it was their duty not to make a new translation but to revise one already existing, which for more than two centuries and a half had held the position of an English classic. They have therefore departed from it only in cases where they disagreed with the Translators of 1611 as to the meaning or construction of a word or sentence; or where it was necessary for the sake of uniformity to render such parallel passages as were identical in Hebrew by the same English words, so that an English reader might know at once by comparison that a difference in the translation corresponded to a difference in the original; or where the language of the Authorised Version was liable to be misunderstood by reason of its being archaic or obscure; or finally, where the rendering of an earlier English version seemed preferable, or where by an apparently slight change it was possible to bring out more fully the meaning of a passage of which the translation was already substantially accurate.

It has been thought advisable in regard to the word 'JEHOVAH' to follow the usage of the Authorised Version, and not to insert it uniformly in place of 'LORD' or 'God', which when printed in small capitals represent the words substituted by Jewish custom for the ineffable Name according to the vowel points by which it is distinguished. It will be found therefore that in this respect the Authorised Version has been departed from only in a few passages, in which the introduction of a proper name seemed to be required.

Terms of natural history have been changed only where it was certain that the Authorised Version was incorrect and where there was sufficient evidence for the substituted rendering. In cases of doubt the alternative rendering has been given in the margin; and even where no doubt existed, but where there was no familiar English equivalent for the original word, the Old Version has been allowed to remain<sup>1</sup>, and the more accurate term has been placed in the margin.

In some words of very frequent occurrence, the Authorised Version being either inadequate or inconsistent, and sometimes misleading, changes have been introduced with as much uniformity as appeared practicable or desirable. For instance, 'the tabernacle of the congregation' has been everywhere changed to 'the tent of meeting', on account of Exodus xxv. 22, xxix. 42, 43, and also because 'the tabernacle of the congregation' conveys an entirely wrong sense. The words 'tabernacle' and 'tent', as the renderings of two different Hebrew words, are in the Authorised Version frequently interchanged in such a manner as to lead to confusion; and the Revisers have endeavoured throughout the Pentateuch to preserve a consistent distinction between them. Their practice in regard to the words 'assembly' and 'congregation' has been the same in principle, although they have contented themselves with introducing greater consistency of rendering without aiming at absolute uniformity. In consequence of the changes which have taken place in the English language, the term 'meat offering' has become inappropriate to describe an offering of which flesh was no part; and by the alteration to 'meal offering' a sufficiently accurate representation of the original has been obtained with the least possible change of form.

As regards the use of words, there are only a few cases in which it has been found needful to deviate from the language employed in the Authorised Version. One of these deviations occurs so frequently that it may be well to state briefly why it was adopted. The word 'peoples' was nowhere used by King James's Translators in the Old Testament, and in the New Testament it occurs only twice (Rev. x. 11, xvii. 15). The effect of this was to leave the rendering of numerous passages inadequate or obscure or even positively misleading. Thus in one of the best known Psalms (Ps. lxvii.), where the Septuagint has λαοί and the Vulgate populi, the English had 'Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee'; leaving it at least doubtful whether the 'nations' of verse 4, or God's people, Israel, be referred to. And in Isaiah lv. 4, 'Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people', the word 'people' is naturally understood by the English reader to refer to Israel.

Again, the Hebrew word goyim 'nations', which is applied to the nations of Canaan dispossessed by the Hebrews, and then also to the surrounding nations among whom the people of Israel were afterwards dispersed, acquired in later times a moral significance, which is represented in the Authorised Version by the rendering 'heathen' or 'Gentiles'. While recognizing this moral sense of the word, the Revisers have employed it much more sparingly than their predecessors had done.

Similarly, the Hebrew Sheol, which signifies the abode of departed spirits, and corresponds to the Greek Hades, or the under world, is variously rendered in the Authorised Version by 'grave', 'pit', and 'hell'. Of these renderings 'hell', if it could be taken in its original sense as used in the Creeds, would be a fairly adequate equivalent for the Hebrew word; but it is so commonly understood of the place of torment that to employ it frequently would lead to inevitable misunderstanding. The Revisers therefore in the historical narratives have left the rendering 'the grave' or 'the pit' in the text, with a marginal note 'Heb. Sheol' to indicate that it does not signify 'the place of burial'; while in the poetical writings they have put most commonly 'Sheol' in the text and 'the grave' in the margin. In Isaiah xiv. however, where 'hell' is used in more of its original sense and is less liable to be misunderstood, and where any change in so familiar a passage which was not distinctly an improvement would be a decided loss, the Revisers have contented themselves with leaving 'hell' in the text, and have connected it with other passages by putting 'Sheol' in the margin.

In connexion with this it may be mentioned that 'Abaddon', which has hitherto been known to the English reader of the Bible only from the New Testament (Rev. ix. 11), has been introduced in three passages (Job xxvi. 6; Prov. xv. 11, xxvii. 20), where a proper name appears to be required for giving vividness and point.

The Hebrew word Asherah, which is uniformly and wrongly rendered 'grove' in the Authorised Version, most probably denotes the wooden symbol of a goddess; and the Revisers therefore have not hesitated to introduce it as a proper name in the singular (Judg. vi. 25, &c.), with the plurals Asherim (Ex. xxxiv. 13, &c.) and Asheroth (Judg. iii. 7, &c.), following the analogy of the Baalim (Judg. iii. 7) and the Ashtaroth (Judg. ii. 13), which are already familiar.

In regard to the language of the Authorised Version, the Revisers have thought it no part of their duty to reduce it to conformity with modern usage, and have therefore left untouched all archaisms, whether of language or construction, which though not in familiar use cause a reader no embarrassment and lead to no misunderstanding. They are aware that in so doing they will disappoint the large English-speaking race on the other side of the Atlantic, and it is a question upon which they are prepared to agree to a friendly difference of opinion. The principle by which they have been guided has been clear and consistent. Where an archaic word or expression was liable to be misunderstood or at least was not perfectly intelligible, they have substituted for it another, in equally good use at the time the Authorised Version was made, and expressing all that the archaism was intended to convey, but more familiar to the modern reader. In such cases the gain was greater than the loss. But in other instances where the word or expression, although obsolete, was not unintelligible, it was thought that the change would involve greater loss than gain, and the old rendering was therefore allowed to stand. More especially was this the case when the archaism was a perfectly correct rendering of the original and there was no exact modern equivalent for it. The principle adopted by the Company will be best illustrated by two typical examples. The verb 'to ear' in the sense of 'to plough' and the substantive 'earing' for 'ploughing' were very reluctantly abandoned, and only because it was ascertained that their meaning was unknown to many persons of good intelligence and education. But it was easy to put in their place equivalents which had a pedigree of almost equal antiquity, and it would have been an excess of conservatism to refuse to substitute for an unintelligible archaism an expression to which no ambiguity could be attached. On the other hand the word 'bolled' (Ex. ix. 31), which signifies 'poddled for seed' and is known in provincial dialects, has no synonym in literary English. To have discarded it in favour of a less accurate or more paraphrastic expression would have been to impoverish the language; and it was therefore left, because it exactly expresses one view which is taken of the meaning of the original.

One of the few instances in which the language of the Authorised Version has been modified in accordance with later usage is the change of the neuter possessive pronoun from 'his' to 'its'. It is well known that 'its' does not occur in the Bible of 1611, and it does not appear to have been introduced into any edition before 1660. But it is found ten times in Shakespeare, and there is other evidence to shew that at the time of the Authorised Version it was coming into use. It was found necessary in some cases to substitute 'its' for 'his' in order to avoid obscurity, and there seemed no good reason, when it was once introduced, for refusing to admit it generally when it referred to purely inanimate objects.

In making minor changes, whether in translation or language, the Revisers have followed the example of the translators of the Authorised Version, who allowed themselves in this respect a reasonable freedom, without permitting their liberty to degenerate into license.

It will be at once seen that the old division of the books into chapters and verses has been abandoned in favour of the arrangement in paragraphs, the numbering of the chapters and verses being however retained for convenience of reference. Where the change of subject seemed to require a greater break than was marked by the beginning of a new paragraph, it has been indicated by a space before the paragraph. Occasionally the divisions of the chapters in the Authorised Version differ from those in the common Hebrew Bibles. In such cases the variations are given in the margin. In the Psalms, the titles are printed in smaller type, as in some modern English Bibles, which differ in this respect from the edition of 1611. One consequence of the arrangement in paragraphs has been the omission of the headings of chapters, which for other and more important reasons it was thought advisable to abandon, as involving questions which belong rather to the province of the commentator than to that of the translator. With the headings of chapters the head-lines of pages naturally disappeared also, and for the same reason.

In the poetical portions, besides the division into paragraphs, the Revisers have adopted an arrangement in lines, so as to exhibit the parallelism which is characteristic of Hebrew Poetry. But they have not extended this arrangement to the prophetic books, the language of which although frequently marked by parallelism is, except in purely lyrical passages, rather of the nature of lofty and impassioned prose.

In the use of italics the Revisers departed from the custom of the Authorised Version and adopted as their rule the following resolution of their Company:

'That all such words now printed in italics, as are plainly implied in the Hebrew and necessary in English, be printed in common type.'

But where any doubt existed as to the exact rendering of the Hebrew, all words which have been added in order to give completeness to the English expression are printed in italic type, so that the reader by omitting them may be able to see how far their insertion is justified by the words of the original. This of course is especially true of those renderings for which an alternative is given in the margin, where the roman and italic type play exactly opposite parts.

To complete the account of the Revised Version it remains only to describe the marginal notes. These will be found to contain

(1) The renderings of such variations in the Massoretic Text as appeared to be of sufficient importance. These variations are known by the technical names of K'ri (read) and C'thib (written), which denote that the K'ri, or reading in the margin of the Hebrew Bible, is to be substituted for the C'thib which appears in the written text. The Revisers have generally, though not uniformly, rendered the C'thib in the text, and left the K'ri in the margin, with the introductory note 'Or, according to another reading', or 'Another reading is'. When the K'ri has been followed in the text, the C'thib has been placed in the margin, if it represented a variation of sufficient importance.

(2) Alternative renderings, introduced by 'Or'. These are either different meanings of the word or passage, or they serve to connect it with other renderings elsewhere.

(3) Literal renderings of the Hebrew or Aramaic, indicated by the prefix 'Heb.' or 'Aram.'

(4) Changes of text made on the authority of the ancient Versions.

(5) Readings from ancient Versions which appeared to be of sufficient importance to be noticed.

(6) Renderings of the Hebrew consonants as read with different vowel points, or as differently divided. These are introduced by the words 'Or, as otherwise read'.

(7) Marginal references to other passages, which are either strictly parallel, or serve the purpose of illustrating or justifying a particular rendering.

(8) Explanations of certain proper names, the meaning of which is referred to in the text.

In the Proper Names the Revisers have endeavoured to ascertain the system of transliteration adopted by the Translators of the Authorised Version and to carry it out with somewhat greater consistency. They have not however attempted anything like rigid uniformity, and have left unchanged all those names which by usage have become English; as, for instance, Moses, Aaron, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the like.

Among the Rules laid down by the Revision Committee of Convocation for the guidance of the Revisers was one that no change should be finally made in the text of the Authorised Version except by the vote of two-thirds of the Company present and voting; and this Rule has been invariably acted upon. The result has been that in many cases a rendering which was preferred by the majority of the Company voting has been recorded in the margin, the majority not being sufficient to give it a place in the text. But all questions of marginal readings, as well as of punctuation and division into paragraphs, except where these affected the sense of a passage, were decided by a simple majority.

It may be of some interest to describe the method observed by the Company in their work, if only to shew that every question raised was carefully and deliberately considered. In the first Revision it was the practice for the Secretary to read over each verse, first in the original and then in the Authorised Version; the proposals for change were then taken; first those communicated in writing by absent members, and next those made by the members present. Each proposal was moved, and if seconded was discussed and voted upon; the decision in the first Revision being by a majority only. If a proposal met with no seconder, it was not discussed but allowed to drop. In the second Revision, the Secretary read out in order the changes which had been made at the first Revision; if these were unchallenged they were allowed to remain, otherwise they were put to the vote and affirmed or rejected according as they were or were not supported by the requisite majority of two-thirds. In the second Revision new propositions could only be made by special permission of the Company, and discussion was limited, as far as possible, to exceptional cases. In the final review, which was in reality the completion of the second Revision, the Company employed themselves in making a general survey of what they had done, deciding finally upon reserved points, harmonizing inconsistencies, smoothing down roughnesses, removing unnecessary changes, and generally giving finish and completeness to their work. Everything in this final survey was decided by the vote of a majority of two-thirds.

The Revisers had already made some progress, and had in fact gone twice through the Pentateuch, before they secured the co-operation of the American Old Testament Revision Company. The first Revision of the several books was submitted to the consideration of the American Revisers, and, except in the case of the Pentateuch, the English Company had the benefit of their criticisms and suggestions before they proceeded to the second Revision. The second Revision was in like manner forwarded to America, and the latest thoughts of the American Revisers were in the hands of the English Company at their final review. In every instance the suggestions from America were treated with the same consideration as those proceeding from members of the English Company, and were adopted or rejected on their merits. It was a part of the terms of agreement with the American Company that all points of ultimate difference between them and the English Revisers should be placed on record, and they will accordingly be found fully stated at the end of the Old Testament, or at the end of the several portions, according as the Revised Version appears in one or more volumes. Many of them will be found to be changes of language which are involved in the essentially different circumstances of American and English readers; others express a preference for the marginal rendering over that given in the text; others again involve a real difference of opinion; but all shew that they have been dictated by the same leading principle, the sincere desire to give to modern readers a faithful representation of the meaning of the original documents.

It could not but be expected that in the course of fourteen years many changes would take place in the members of the Company. Of the original number who first put their hands to the work on the 30th of June 1870, only fifteen now remain. Ten of the Company have been removed by death, and two resigned: the places of these were filled from time to time by others; but since October 1875 no new members have been added. The Revision was completed in eighty-five sessions, ending on 20th June, 1884; and it occupied 792 days. The greater part of the sessions were for ten days each, and each day the Company generally sat for six hours. The labour therefore has been great, but it has been given ungrudgingly; and now with a feeling of deep thankfulness to Almighty God, and the earnest hope that their endeavours may with His blessing tend to a clearer knowledge of the Old Testament Scriptures, the Revisers bring their long task to a close.

13 And <sup>4</sup>the evening and the morning were the <sup>1</sup>third day.

14 ¶ And God said, Let there be <sup>6</sup>lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide <sup>7</sup>the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and <sup>1</sup>for seasons, and for days <sup>o</sup>and years:

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God <sup>n</sup>made <sup>5</sup>two great lights; the greater light <sup>p</sup>to rule the day, and <sup>q</sup>the lesser light to rule the night: <sup>he</sup>made <sup>u</sup>the stars also.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, 18 And to <sup>9</sup>rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that <sup>1</sup>it was good.

19 And <sup>6</sup>the evening and the morning were the <sup>1</sup>fourth day.

22 And God blessed them, saying, <sup>a</sup>Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And <sup>1</sup>the evening and the morning were the <sup>1</sup>fifth day.

24 ¶ And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after <sup>2</sup>his' kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after <sup>2</sup>his' kind: and it was so.

25 And God made the beast of the earth after <sup>2</sup>his' kind, and <sup>3</sup>cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the <sup>4</sup>earth after his' kind: and God saw that †it was good.

26 ¶ And God said, <sup>9</sup>Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and †let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

28 And God blessed them <sup>6</sup>, and God said unto them, <sup>2</sup>Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: †and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that <sup>8d</sup>moveth upon the earth.

29 ¶ And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb <sup>9</sup>bearing<sup>1</sup> seed, which †is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which †is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; †to you it shall be for meat †.

30 And to <sup>2</sup>every beast of the earth, and to every †fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein †there is <sup>2m</sup>life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

31 And <sup>2</sup>God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, †it was very good. And <sup>3</sup>the evening and the morning were <sup>1</sup>the sixth day.

2 <sup>o</sup>And on the seventh day God <sup>2</sup>ended<sup>1</sup> his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

4 ¶ These †are the generations of the <sup>5</sup>heavens' and of the earth when they were created, in the day that <sup>6</sup>the LORD God made <sup>7</sup>the earth and the heavens,

5 And every <sup>h</sup>plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew†: for the LORD God had not <sup>k</sup>caused it to rain upon the earth, and †there was not a man †to till the ground <sup>3</sup>.

6 But <sup>m</sup>there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

8 ¶ And the LORD God planted †a garden †eastward<sup>9</sup> in †Eden; and there †he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow †every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; †the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, <sup>h</sup>and the tree of <sup>1</sup>knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became <sup>o</sup>into<sup>1</sup> four heads.

11 The name of the first <sup>2</sup>is Pison: that <sup>is</sup> it which compasseth <sup>n</sup>the whole land of Havilah, where †there is gold;

15 And the LORD God took <sup>b</sup>the man, and <sup>c</sup>put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden <sup>d</sup>thou mayest freely eat:

17 <sup>f</sup>But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, <sup>g</sup>thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof <sup>i</sup>thou shalt surely die.

18 ¶ And the LORD God said, †It is not good that the man should be alone; <sup>k</sup>I will make him an help <sup>l</sup>meet for him.

CHAPTER 4.

01 Birth of Cain and Abel. 8 Murder of Abel. 11 The curse of Cain. 17 Enoch the first city. 19 Lamech and his two wives. 25 Birth of Seth and Enos.

2 And <sup>4</sup> she again † bare his brother <sup>q</sup> Abel. And Abel was <sup>a</sup> a keeper of sheep, but Cain was <sup>a</sup> a tiller of the ground.

3 And † in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought <sup>m</sup> of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel, he also brought of † the firstlings of his † flock and of the fat thereof. And the LORD had † respect unto Abel and to his offering:

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, <sup>b</sup> and his countenance fell.

6 And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

8 And Cain <sup>8</sup> talked with † Abel his brother <sup>9</sup>; and † it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and † slew him.

9 ¶ And the LORD said unto Cain, <sup>2</sup> Where † is Abel thy brother? And he said, <sup>q</sup> I know not: <sup>1a</sup> Am † I my brother's keeper?

10 And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's <sup>u</sup> blood <sup>z</sup> crieth unto me from the ground.

11 And now <sup>2</sup> art thou cursed from the earth, † which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand;

12 When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a <sup>3</sup> vagabond † shalt thou be in the earth.

CHAPTER 6.

6 And †it repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it <sup>g</sup>grieved him at his heart.

12 And God <sup>4e</sup>looked upon<sup>1</sup> the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

13 <sup>5</sup> And God said unto Noah,

18 But <sup>8</sup>with thee will I <sup>1</sup>establish my covenant<sup>9</sup>; and <sup>2</sup>thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

19 And of every living thing of all flesh, <sup>m</sup>two of every <sup>1</sup>sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep <sup>1</sup>them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and <sup>2</sup>thou shalt gather <sup>1</sup>it to thee; and it shall be for food for thee, and for them.

22 <sup>2</sup>Thus did Noah; <sup>2</sup>according to all that God commanded him, so did he.

5 <sup>5</sup>And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him.

6 <sup>6</sup>And Noah <sup>1</sup>was six hundred years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth.

10 And it came to pass <sup>2</sup>after <sup>8</sup>seven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

11 <sup>11</sup>¶ In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, <sup>9</sup>the seventeenth day of the month, <sup>9</sup>the same day were all <sup>11</sup>the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the <sup>2</sup>windows of heaven were opened.

12 <sup>12</sup>And the rain was upon the Earth forty days and forty nights.

13 In the selfsame day <sup>1</sup>entered Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, into the ark;

14 <sup>14</sup>They, and every beast after <sup>1</sup>his<sup>1</sup> kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after <sup>1</sup>his<sup>1</sup> kind, and every fowl after <sup>1</sup>his<sup>1</sup> kind, every bird of every <sup>2</sup>a sort.

CHAPTER 8.

<sup>o</sup> 1 The waters assuage. 4 The ark resteth on Ararat. 7 The raven and the dove. 18 Noah goeth forth of the ark. 20 He buildeth an altar, and offereth sacrifice. 21 God promiseth to curse the earth no more.

AND God <sup>2</sup>remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that <sup>3</sup>was<sup>1</sup> with him in the ark: <sup>7</sup>and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters <sup>1</sup>asswaged<sup>1</sup>;

2 <sup>e</sup>The fountains also of the deep and the windows of heaven were stopped, and <sup>4</sup>the rain from heaven was restrained;

3 And the waters returned from off the earth <sup>2</sup>continually:

17 Bring forth with thee <sup>a</sup>every living thing that <sup>t</sup>is with thee<sup>o</sup>, <sup>1</sup>of all flesh, †both <sup>o</sup>of <sup>1</sup>fowl, and <sup>o</sup>of <sup>1</sup>cattle, and <sup>o</sup>of <sup>1</sup>every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and <sup>e</sup>be fruitful, and multiply upon the earth.

18 And Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him:

19 Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, <sup>o</sup>and <sup>1</sup> whatsoever <sup>1</sup>creepeth<sup>1</sup> upon the earth, after their <sup>2</sup>kinds, <sup>1</sup>went forth out of the ark.

20 ¶ And Noah builded an altar unto the LORD; and took of <sup>m</sup>every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar.

21 And the LORD smelled <sup>3p</sup>a<sup>1</sup> sweet savour; and the LORD said in his heart, I will not again <sup>a</sup>curse the ground any more for man's <sup>4</sup>sake; <sup>1</sup>for<sup>1</sup> the <sup>1</sup>imagination of man's heart <sup>t</sup>is evil from his youth; <sup>a</sup>neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I have done.

22 <sup>3</sup>While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and <sup>a</sup>day and night shall not cease.

<sup>5</sup> AND God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, <sup>e</sup>Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.

2 <sup>a</sup>And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the <sup>6</sup>air, upon all that moveth <sup>upon</sup> the earth, and upon<sup>1</sup> all the fishes of the sea<sup>7</sup>; <sup>1</sup>into your hand are they delivered.

3 <sup>1</sup>Every moving thing that liveth shall be <sup>s</sup>meat<sup>1</sup> for you; <sup>e</sup>even<sup>1</sup> as the <sup>k</sup>green herb have I given you <sup>a</sup>all<sup>1</sup> things<sup>1</sup>.

CHAPTER 12.

NOW the <sup>1</sup>LORD <sup>o</sup>had<sup>1</sup> said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's <sup>a</sup> will kill me, but they will save thee alive.

13 <sup>b</sup>Say, I pray thee, thou †art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake†; and my soul shall† live because of thee.

14 <sup>o</sup>¶ And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians <sup>e</sup>beheld the woman that she †was very fair.

15 <sup>2</sup>The<sup>2</sup> princes <sup>o</sup>also<sup>1</sup> of Pharaoh saw her, and <sup>3</sup>commended her before† Pharaoh: and the woman was <sup>2</sup>taken into Pharaoh's house.

17 And the LORD <sup>n</sup>plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai Abram's wife.

19 Why saidst thou, She †is my sister? so <sup>6</sup>I might have taken her for me to† wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take †her, and go thy way.

CHAPTER 13.

<sup>o</sup>1 Abram and Lot return out of Egypt. 11 They part asunder. 12 Lot goeth to Sodom. 14 God reneweth the promise to Abram. 18 Abram removeth to Hebron, and buildeth an altar.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, <sup>9</sup>into the <sup>9</sup>south†.

2 <sup>e</sup>And Abram †was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journeys <sup>9</sup>from the <sup>9</sup>south† even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and <sup>1</sup>Hai†.

4 Unto the <sup>k</sup>place of the altar, which he had made there at the first: and there Abram <sup>m</sup>called on the name of the LORD.

5 <sup>o</sup>¶ And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And <sup>e</sup>the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together.

7 And there was <sup>a</sup>a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: <sup>7</sup>and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

8 And Abram said unto Lot, <sup>k</sup>Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we <sup>1</sup>be† <sup>k</sup>brethren.

9 †Is not the whole land before thee? separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: <sup>m</sup>if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou <sup>2</sup>depart to† the right hand, then I will go to the left.

14 <sup>o</sup>¶ And the LORD said unto Abram, after that Lot <sup>a</sup>was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art <sup>1</sup>northward<sup>o</sup>, and southward<sup>o</sup>, and eastward<sup>o</sup>, and westward:

15 For all the land which thou seest, <sup>a</sup>to thee will I give it, and †to thy seed for ever.

16 And †I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, †then shall thy seed also be numbered.

<sup>2</sup> That these<sup>1</sup> made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of <sup>2</sup>Admah, and Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela<sup>6</sup>, which is <sup>2</sup>Zoar.

CHAPTER 16.

NOW Sarai Abram's wife <sup>1</sup> bare him no children: and she had an handmaid, <sup>a</sup> an

4 <sup>o</sup>¶ And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was <sup>2</sup>despised in her eyes.

5 And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong †be upon thee: I <sup>6</sup>have given my maid<sup>1</sup> into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: <sup>2</sup>the LORD judge between me and thee.

8 And he said, Hagar, Sarai's <sup>9</sup>maid,<sup>1</sup> whence camest thou? and whither <sup>1</sup>wilt thou go<sup>1</sup>? And she said, I flee from the face of my mistress Sarai.

9 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and †submit thyself under her hands.

10 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, "I will <sup>2</sup>multiply thy seed exceedingly,<sup>1</sup> that it shall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Behold, thou †art with child, and shalt bear a son<sup>3</sup>, <sup>1</sup>and <sup>4</sup>shalt call his name <sup>5</sup>Ishmael<sup>6</sup>; <sup>1</sup>because the LORD hath heard thy affliction.

29 ¶ And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the <sup>1</sup>'plain,' that God <sup>2</sup>'remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

30 ¶ And Lot went up out of Zoar, and <sup>3</sup>'dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

31 And the firstborn said unto the younger, Our father <sup>4</sup>'is old, and <sup>5</sup>'there is not a man in the earth <sup>6</sup>'to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth:

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we <sup>7</sup>'may preserve seed of our father.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night: and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he <sup>8</sup>'perceived' not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, <sup>9</sup>'and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he <sup>10</sup>'perceived' not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father.

37 And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab: <sup>11</sup>'the same <sup>12</sup>'is the father of the Moabites unto this day.

38 And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi: <sup>13</sup>'the same <sup>14</sup>'is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

5 Said he not <sup>r</sup>unto me, She <sup>s</sup>is my sister? and she, even she herself said, He <sup>t</sup>is my brother: <sup>u</sup>in the <sup>v</sup>integrity of my heart and <sup>w</sup>innocency of my hands have I done this.

8 <sup>3</sup>Therefore<sup>1</sup> Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ears: and the men were sore afraid.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and <sup>k</sup>what have I offended<sup>1</sup> thee, <sup>l</sup>that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto me <sup>m</sup>that ought not to be done.

10 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing?

11 And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely <sup>a</sup>the fear of God <sup>b</sup>is not in this place; and <sup>c</sup>they will slay me for my wife's sake.

12 And <sup>d</sup>yet indeed <sup>e</sup>she is my sister; she <sup>f</sup>is<sup>1</sup> the daughter of 13 And it came to pass, when <sup>a</sup>God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said unto her, This <sup>b</sup>is thy kindness which thou shalt shew unto me; at every place whither we shall come, <sup>c</sup>say of me, He <sup>d</sup>is my brother.

17 ¶ So<sup>1</sup> Abraham <sup>a</sup>prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maidservants; and they bare <sup>b</sup>children.

18 For the LORD <sup>c</sup>had fast closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech, because of Sarah Abraham's wife.

<sup>o1</sup> Abraham sendeth his servant to seek a wife for Isaac. 50 He obtaineth Rebekah. 62 Isaac meeteth her.

AND Abraham <sup>c</sup>was old, and <sup>d</sup>well stricken in age: and the LORD <sup>d</sup>had blessed Abraham in all things.

2 And Abraham said <sup>o</sup>unto his <sup>eldest</sup> servant<sup>1</sup> of his house, that <sup>k</sup>ruled over all that he had, <sup>i</sup>Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh:

3 And I will make thee <sup>m</sup>swear by the LORD, the God of heaven<sup>o</sup>, and the God of the earth, that <sup>n</sup>thou shalt not take a wife <sup>2</sup>unto<sup>1</sup> my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell:

4 <sup>2</sup>But thou shalt go <sup>o</sup>unto my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife <sup>2</sup>unto<sup>1</sup> my son Isaac.

5 And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: must I needs bring thy son again unto the land from whence thou camest?

6 And Abraham said unto him, Beware thou that thou bring not my son thither again.

7 <sup>o</sup>¶ The LORD<sup>3</sup> God of heaven, <sup>4</sup>which<sup>1</sup> <sup>5</sup>took me from my father's house, and from the land of my <sup>6</sup>kindred, and which<sup>1</sup> spake unto me, and that sware unto me, saying, <sup>2</sup>Unto thy seed will I give this land; <sup>4</sup>he shall send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife <sup>6</sup>unto<sup>1</sup> my son from thence.

8 And if the woman <sup>7</sup>will not be<sup>1</sup> willing to follow thee, then <sup>6</sup>thou shalt be clear from this my oath<sup>8</sup>: only bring not<sup>1</sup> my son thither again.

9 And the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him concerning <sup>9</sup>that<sup>1</sup> matter.

15 <sup>o</sup>¶ And it came to pass, before he had done speaking, that, behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel<sup>1</sup>, son of <sup>1</sup>Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder.

16 And the damsel †was <sup>z</sup>very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and she went down to the <sup>5</sup>well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said, <sup>6</sup>Let me, I pray thee, drink<sup>1</sup> a little water of thy pitcher.

18 <sup>b</sup>And she said, Drink, my lord: and she hastened, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

19 And when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw <sup>water</sup><sup>1</sup> for thy camels also, until they have done drinking.

20 And she hastened, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw <sup>water</sup><sup>1</sup>, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man <sup>7</sup>wondering at her held his peace, to wit<sup>1</sup> whether <sup>6</sup>the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

48 <sup>ⁱ</sup>And I bowed <sup>ⁱ</sup>down<sup>ⁱ</sup> my head, and worshipped the LORD, and blessed the LORD <sup>ⁱ</sup>God of my master Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take <sup>ⁱ</sup>my master's brother's daughter <sup>ⁱ</sup>unto<sup>ⁱ</sup> his son.

52 And it came to pass, that, when Abraham's servant heard their words, he <sup>ⁱ</sup>worshipped the LORD, bowing himself to the earth.

53 And the servant brought forth <sup>ⁱ</sup>jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave †them to Rebekah: he gave also to her brother and to her mother <sup>ⁱ</sup>precious things.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that †were with him, and tarried all night; and they rose up in the morning, and he said, <sup>ⁱ</sup>Send me away unto my master.

55 And her brother and her mother said, Let the damsel abide with us <sup>ⁱ</sup>a few days, at the least ten; after that she shall go.

56 And he said unto them, Hinder me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way; send me away that I may go to my master.

57 And they said, We will call the damsel, and <sup>ⁱ</sup>enquire<sup>ⁱ</sup> at her mouth.

58 And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

CHAPTER 29.

<sup>o</sup>1 Jacob, coming to the well of Haran, <sup>9</sup>meeteth Rachel. 13 Laban entertaineth him. 18 Jacob, covenanting for Rachel, 23 is deceived with Leah. 28 He marrieth Rachel also. 32 Leah beareth Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah.

2 And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and, lo, <sup>o</sup>there <sup>were</sup> three flocks of sheep lying <sup>4</sup>by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and <sup>5a</sup>a great stone <sup>was</sup> upon the well's mouth <sup>6</sup>.

3 And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again upon the well's mouth in <sup>his</sup> place.

4 And Jacob said unto them, My brethren, whence <sup>1be</sup> ye? And they said, Of Haran <sup>1are</sup> we.

5 And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nahor? And they said, We know <sup>1him</sup>.

6 And he said unto them, <sup>8z</sup>Is he well? And they said, <sup>9He</sup> is <sup>1</sup>well: and, behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep.

7 And he said, Lo, <sup>1y</sup>it is yet high day, neither <sup>1is</sup> it time that the cattle should be gathered together: water ye the sheep, and go <sup>1and</sup> feed <sup>1them</sup>.

8 And they said, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and <sup>1till</sup> they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep.

9 ¶And while <sup>1</sup>he yet spake with them, <sup>1</sup>Rachel came with her father's sheep <sup>2</sup>. <sup>1</sup>for she kept them.

10 And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near, and <sup>1</sup>rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother.

11 And Jacob <sup>1</sup>kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, and wept.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he †was †her father's brother, and that he †was Rebekah's son: †and she ran and told her father.

13 And it came to pass, when Laban heard the †tidings of Jacob his sister's son, that †he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all these things.

14 And Laban said to him, †Surely thou †art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him †the space of a month.

15 †And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou †art my brother, shouldst thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what †shall thy wages †be?

16 And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder †was Leah, and the name of the younger †was Rachel.

17 †Leah †was tender eyed†; but Rachel †was beautiful and well favoured.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and †said, †I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

19 And Laban said, †It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man: abide with me.

20 And Jacob †served seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him †but a few days, for the love he had to her.

21 †And Jacob said unto Laban, Give †me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may †go in unto her.

22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and †made a feast.

23 And it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him; and he went in unto her.

25 And it came to pass†, that† in the morning†, behold, it †was Leah: and he said to Laban, What †is this thou hast done unto me? did not I serve with thee for Rachel? wherefore then hast thou beguiled me?

6 <sup>o</sup>¶ And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to commune with him.

7 And the sons of Jacob came <sup>3</sup>out of<sup>1</sup> the field when they heard <sup>1</sup>it: and the men were grieved, and they <sup>u</sup>were very wroth, because he <sup>x</sup>had wrought folly in Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter; <sup>7</sup>which thing ought not to be done.

8 And Hamor communed with them, saying, The soul of my son Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her <sup>1</sup>him to wife.

9 And make ye marriages with us<sup>5</sup>, and <sup>1</sup>give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye shall dwell with us: and <sup>2</sup>the land shall be before you; dwell and <sup>a</sup>trade ye therein, and <sup>b</sup>get you possessions therein.

11 And Shechem said unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye shall say unto me I will give.

12 Ask me never so much <sup>d</sup>dowry and gift, and I will give according as ye shall say unto me: but give me the damsel to wife.

13 And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father <sup>1</sup><sup>g</sup>deceitfully, and said, <sup>1</sup>because he had defiled Dinah their sister<sup>2</sup>:

14 And they<sup>1</sup> said unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one that is uncircumcised; for <sup>k</sup>that <sup>1</sup>were a reproach unto us:

15 <sup>3</sup>But in this<sup>1</sup> will we consent unto you: <sup>1</sup>If ye will be as we <sup>1</sup>be, that every male of you be circumcised;

16 Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised; then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleased Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's son.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he <sup>2</sup>was <sup>1</sup>more honourable than<sup>1</sup> all the house of his father.

20 <sup>o</sup>¶ And Hamor and Shechem his son came unto the gate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, saying, 21 These men <sup>1</sup>are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; <sup>6</sup>for the land, behold, <sup>1</sup>it is<sup>1</sup> large enough for them; let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

24 And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his son hearkened all that <sup>6</sup>went out of the gate of his city; and every male was circumcised, all that went out of the gate of his city.

25 <sup>6</sup>¶ And it came to pass on the third day, when they were sore, that two of the sons of Jacob, <sup>7</sup>Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren, took each man his sword, and came upon the city <sup>1</sup>boldly, and slew all the males.

26 And they slew Hamor and Shechem his son with the <sup>2</sup>edge of the sword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's house, and went <sup>2</sup>out.

27 The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, and spoiled the city, because they had defiled their sister.

28 They took their <sup>3</sup>sheep, and their oxen, and their asses, and that which <sup>1</sup>was in the city, and that which <sup>1</sup>was in the field.

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives <sup>5</sup>took they captive, and spoiled <sup>5</sup>even all that <sup>1</sup>was in the house.

30 And Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, <sup>7</sup>Ye have <sup>6</sup>troubled me <sup>5</sup>to make me to stink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites: <sup>5</sup>and <sup>1</sup>I <sup>1</sup>being few in number, they <sup>6</sup>shall gather themselves together against me, and <sup>7</sup>slay me; and I shall be destroyed, I and my house.

12<sup>o</sup> ¶ And<sup>b</sup> in process of time<sup>c</sup>
the daughter of Shuah Judah's wife<sup>d</sup> died; and Judah<sup>e</sup> was comforted, and went up unto his sheepshearers to<sup>f</sup> Timnath<sup>1</sup>, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

13 And it was told Tamar, saying, Behold<sup>g</sup> thy father in law goeth up<sup>h</sup> to<sup>i</sup> Timnath<sup>1</sup> to shear his sheep.

14 And she put<sup>j</sup> her widow's garments off from her,<sup>1</sup> and covered<sup>k</sup> her with a veil,<sup>1</sup> and wrapped herself, and<sup>l</sup> sat in<sup>m</sup> an open place,<sup>1</sup> which<sup>n</sup> is by the way to<sup>o</sup> Timnath<sup>1</sup>; for she saw<sup>p</sup> that Shelah was grown<sup>1</sup>, and she was not given unto him to wife.

15 When Judah saw her, he thought her<sup>q</sup> to be an harlot;
because<sup>r</sup> she had covered her face.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and said, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee<sup>s</sup>; (for<sup>t</sup> he knew not that she<sup>u</sup> was his daughter in law.<sup>o</sup>)
And she said, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?

17 And he said, I will send thee<sup>v</sup> a kid<sup>w</sup> from the flock.
And she said, Wilt thou give<sup>x</sup> me a pledge, till thou send<sup>y</sup> it?

18 And he said, What pledge shall I give thee? And she said, Thy signet<sup>z</sup>, and thy bracelets,<sup>1</sup> and thy staff that<sup>aa</sup> is in thine hand. And he gave<sup>ab</sup> it<sup>1</sup> her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him.

19 And she arose, and went away, and<sup>ac</sup> laid by her vail<sup>1</sup> from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the kid<sup>s</sup> by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive<sup>ad</sup> his<sup>1</sup>
pledge from the woman's hand:
but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of<sup>ae</sup>

18 ¶ Then Judah came near unto him, and said, Oh my lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my lord's ears, and <sup>a</sup>let not thine anger burn against thy servant: for thou †art even as Pharaoh.

19 My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we said unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and <sup>a</sup>a child of his old age, a little one; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.

21 And thou saidst unto thy servants, <sup>a</sup>Bring him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him.

22 And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for †if he should leave his father, †his father would die.

23 And thou saidst unto thy servants, <sup>a</sup>Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more.

24 And it came to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my lord.

25 And †our father said, Go again, <sup>o</sup>and<sup>1</sup> buy us a little food.

26 And we said, We cannot go down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother †be with us.

27 And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye know that †my wife bare me two †sons:

28 And the one went out from me, and I said, †Surely he is torn in pieces; and I †saw him not<sup>1</sup> since:

the lad †be not with us; seeing that <sup>1b</sup>his life is bound up in the lad's life;

31 It shall come to pass, when he seeth that the lad †is not with us, that he will die: and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to †the grave.

32 For thy servant became surety for the lad unto my father, saying, <sup>a</sup>If I bring him not unto thee, then †I shall<sup>1</sup> bear the blame to my father for ever.

33 Now therefore, <sup>o</sup>I pray thee, †let thy servant† abide instead of the lad a bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brethren.

34 For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad †be not with me? lest <sup>o</sup>peradventure<sup>1</sup> I see the evil that shall <sup>h</sup>come on my father.

CHAPTER 45.

<sup>o</sup> 1 Joseph maketh himself known to his brethren. 5 He comforteth them, 9 and sendeth for his father. 27 Jacob's spirit reviveth.

THEN Joseph could not refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me. And there stood no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren.

2 And he †wept aloud: and the Egyptians† and the house of Pharaoh heard.

3 And Joseph said unto his brethren, †I †am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him; for they were †troubled at his presence.

4 And Joseph said unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you. And they came near. And he said, I †am Joseph your brother, †whom ye sold into Egypt.

6 For these two years †hath the famine †been in the land: and †yet there are† five years, in the which †there shall †neither be earing† nor harvest.

CHAPTER 6.

<sup>8</sup> And I will bring you in unto the land, concerning † the which I did <sup>c</sup> swear<sup>1</sup> to give it to Abraham, and to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage: I † am <sup>8</sup> the LORD.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>9</sup> ¶ And Moses spake so unto the children of Israel: <sup>6</sup> but they hearkened not unto Moses for <sup>9c</sup> anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.

<sup>10</sup> And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

let the children of Israel go out of his land.

<sup>12</sup> And Moses spake before the LORD, saying, Behold, the children of Israel have <sup>a</sup> not hearkened unto me; how then shall Pharaoh hear me, <sup>b</sup> who † am of uncircumcised lips?

<sup>13</sup> And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

10 So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill.

These <sup>1</sup> are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel.	6 <sup>s</sup> set before them
	24 So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father in law, and did all that he had said.		7 <sup>o</sup> ¶ And Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and <sup>1</sup> laid before their faces <sup>1</sup> all these words which the LORD commanded him.
	25 And <sup>1</sup> Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.		8 And <sup>1</sup> all the people answered together, and said, All that the LORD hath spoken we will do. And Moses <sup>1</sup> returned <sup>1</sup> the words of the people unto the LORD.	7 <sup>s</sup> reported

10 <sup>o</sup> ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and <sup>b</sup> sanctify them <sup>2</sup> to day and <sup>3</sup> to morrow, and let them <sup>c</sup> wash their 'clothes,' 11 And be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD <sup>d</sup> will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.
12 And thou shalt set bounds unto the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, <sup>e</sup> that ye go <sup>f</sup> not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: <sup>g</sup> whosoever toucheth the mount shall be surely put to death:
13 <sup>h</sup> There shall not an hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether <sup>i</sup> it be beast or man, it shall not live: when the <sup>j</sup> trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount.
14 <sup>o</sup> ¶ And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and <sup>m</sup> sanctified the people; and they washed their <sup>n</sup> clothes.
15 And he said unto the people, <sup>n</sup> Be ready against the third day: <sup>p</sup> come not <sup>q</sup> at your wives.
16 <sup>o</sup> ¶ And it came to pass on the third <sup>3</sup> day in the <sup>r</sup> morning, that there were <sup>s</sup> thunders and lightnings, and a <sup>t</sup> thick cloud upon the mount, and the <sup>u</sup> voice of <sup>v</sup> the <sup>w</sup> trumpet exceeding loud; <sup>2</sup> so that <sup>x</sup> all the people that <sup>y</sup> was in the camp trembled.
17 And <sup>z</sup> Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet <sup>o</sup> with <sup>1</sup> God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount.
18 And <sup>o</sup> Moses said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD <sup>d</sup> will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.
19 And <sup>m</sup> when the voice of the trumpet <sup>o</sup> sounded long, and <sup>p</sup> waxed louder and louder, <sup>q</sup> Moses spake, and <sup>r</sup> God answered him by a voice.

upon mount Sinai, <sup>1</sup> on <sup>2</sup> the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moses <sup>3</sup> up <sup>4</sup> to the top of the mount; and Moses went up.
21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go down, <sup>5</sup> charge the people, lest they break through unto the LORD <sup>6</sup> to gaze, and many of them perish.
22 And let the priests also, which come near to the LORD, <sup>7</sup> sanctify themselves, lest the LORD <sup>8</sup> break forth upon them.
23 And Moses said unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou <sup>9</sup> chargedst <sup>10</sup> us, saying, <sup>11</sup> Set bounds about the mount, and sanctify it.
24 And the LORD said unto him, <sup>12</sup> Away, <sup>13</sup> get thee down, <sup>14</sup> and thou shalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the priests and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, lest he break forth upon them.
25 So Moses went down unto the people, and <sup>15</sup> spake unto <sup>16</sup> them.

15 And Moses went up into the mount, and <sup>ah</sup>a<sup>i</sup> cloud covered the mount.

CHAPTER 25.

<sup>o1</sup> What the Israelites must offer for the making of the tabernacle. <sup>10</sup> The form of the ark, &c.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they <sup>1d</sup>bring<sup>1e</sup> me an <sup>2e</sup>offering: <sup>3e</sup>of every man <sup>2</sup>that giveth it willingly with his heart<sup>1</sup> ye shall take my <sup>2</sup>offering.

3 And this <sup>1</sup>is the <sup>2</sup>offering which ye shall take of them; gold, and silver, and brass<sup>1</sup>,

8 And let them make me a <sup>1</sup>sanctuary; that <sup>2</sup>I may dwell among them.

9 According to all that I shew thee, <sup>o</sup>after<sup>1</sup> the pattern of the <sup>3</sup>tabernacle, and the pattern of all the <sup>4</sup>instruments<sup>1</sup> thereof, even so shall ye make <sup>1</sup>it.

10 ¶ And they shall make an ark <sup>5</sup>of shittim wood: two cubits and a half <sup>1</sup>shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

11 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without shalt thou overlay it, and shalt make upon it a <sup>6</sup>crown of gold round about.

12 And thou shalt cast four rings of gold for it, and put <sup>1</sup>them in the four <sup>7</sup>corners<sup>1</sup> thereof; and two rings <sup>1</sup>shall be <sup>8</sup>in<sup>1</sup> the one <sup>2</sup>side of it, and two rings <sup>8</sup>in<sup>1</sup> the other <sup>2</sup>side of it.

13 And thou shalt make staves <sup>1</sup>of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou shalt put the staves into the rings <sup>8</sup>by<sup>1</sup> the sides of the ark, <sup>2</sup>that the ark may be borne with them.

Moses, <sup>a</sup>Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest <sup>1</sup>out of the land of Egypt, <sup>2</sup>have corrupted †themselves:

8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed †thereunto, and said, †These †be thy gods, O Israel, which <sup>o</sup>have<sup>1</sup> brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, <sup>3</sup>I have seen this people, and, behold, it †is a stiff-necked people:

10 Now therefore †let me alone, that <sup>k</sup>my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume them: and †I will make of thee a great nation.

12 †Wherefore should the Egyptians speak, <sup>2</sup>and say, For mischief<sup>1</sup> did he bring them †out, †to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and <sup>2</sup>repent of this evil against thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou <sup>3</sup>swarest by thine own self, and saidst unto them, <sup>2</sup>I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto your seed, and they shall inherit †it for ever.

15 ¶ And <sup>c</sup>Moses turned, and went down from the mount, <sup>6</sup>and<sup>1</sup> the two tables of the testimony <sup>o</sup>were<sup>1</sup> in his hand†: the tables <sup>were</sup> <sup>1</sup>written on both their sides; on the one side and on the other †were they written.

16 And the †tables †were the work of God, and the writing †was the writing of God, graven upon the tables.

18 And he said, †It is not the voice of them that shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for being overcome: but the noise of them that sing do I hear.

19 ¶ And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that †he saw the calf, and the dancing: and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount.

20 And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt †it in the fire, and ground †it to powder, and †strawed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink †of it.

21 And Moses said unto Aaron, †What did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought †so great a sin upon them?

22 And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: †thou knowest the people, that they †are set on mischief.

23 For they said unto me, †Make us gods, which shall go before us: for †as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we †wot not what is become of him.

24 And I said unto them, Whosoever hath any gold, let them break †it off. So they gave †it me: †then I cast it into the fire, and there †came out this calf.

25 ¶ And when Moses saw that the people †were naked; (for Aaron †had made them naked unto their shame among †their enemies:)

26 Then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, †Who †is on the LORD's side? †let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him.

27 And he said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Put †every man his sword †by his side, and go in and out from gate to gate

<sup>4</sup> ¶ And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first; and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand <sup>the</sup> two tables of stone.

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the LORD your God.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances.

7 The nakedness of thy father, or the nakedness of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover: she is thy mother; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

8 The nakedness of thy father's wife shalt thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedness.

9 The nakedness of thy sister, the daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover.

10 The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover: for their's<sup>1</sup> is thine own nakedness.

12 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's sister: she is thy father's near kinswoman.

13 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister: for she is thy mother's near kinswoman.

14 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's brother, thou shalt not approach to his wife: she is thine aunt.

15 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy daughter in law: she is thy son's wife; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

16 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedness.

17 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter<sup>1</sup>, neither shalt thou take her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness;<sup>2</sup> for they are her<sup>3</sup> near kinswomen: it is<sup>3</sup> wickedness.

18 Neither shalt thou take<sup>4</sup> a wife<sup>5</sup> to her sister,<sup>6</sup> to vex<sup>7</sup> her, to uncover her nakedness, beside the other in her life time.

19 Also thou shalt not approach unto a woman to uncover her nakedness, as long as she is put apart for her uncleanness.

20 Moreover<sup>1</sup> thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyself with her.

21 And thou shalt not let<sup>1</sup> any of thy seed<sup>2</sup> pass through the fire to Molech, neither shalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD.

22 Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.

23 Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion.

24 Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you:

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and say unto him, When thou <sup>o</sup> lightest the lamps, the seven lamps shall give light <sup>o</sup> over against<sup>1</sup> the candlestick.

3 And Aaron did so; he <sup>o</sup> lighted the lamps thereof <sup>o</sup> over against<sup>1</sup> the candlestick, as the LORD commanded Moses.

4 <sup>o</sup> And this <sup>o</sup> work of the <sup>1</sup> candlestick <sup>o</sup> was of beaten gold,<sup>1</sup> unto the <sup>2</sup> shaft<sup>1</sup> thereof, <sup>o</sup> unto the flowers thereof, <sup>o</sup> was<sup>1</sup> <sup>o</sup> beaten work: <sup>o</sup> according unto the pattern which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick.

5 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Take the Levites from among the children of Israel, and cleanse them.

7 And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: <sup>o</sup> Sprinkle <sup>o</sup> water of purifying<sup>1</sup> upon them, and <sup>o</sup> let them <sup>o</sup> shave<sup>1</sup> all their flesh, and let them wash their clothes, and <sup>o</sup> so make themselves clean.<sup>1</sup>

4 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover.
 5 And <sup>6</sup>they kept the passover<sup>1</sup> on the fourteenth day of the <sup>7</sup>first month at even<sup>1</sup> in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.
 6 ¶ And there were certain men, who were <sup>8</sup>defiled<sup>1</sup> by the dead body of a man, <sup>9</sup>that they could not keep the passover on that day: <sup>10</sup>and they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day:
 7 And those men said unto him, We <sup>11</sup>are defiled<sup>1</sup> by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer <sup>12</sup>an offering<sup>1</sup> of the LORD in <sup>13</sup>his<sup>1</sup> appointed season among the children of Israel?
 8 And Moses said unto them, <sup>14</sup>Stand still, and <sup>15</sup>I will<sup>1</sup> hear what the LORD will command concerning you.
 9 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
 10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your <sup>16</sup>posterity<sup>1</sup> shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or <sup>17</sup>be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the LORD<sup>1</sup>.
 11 <sup>18</sup>The fourteenth day of the second month<sup>1</sup> <sup>19</sup>at even they shall keep<sup>1</sup> it, and <sup>20</sup>eat it with unleavened bread and bitter <sup>21</sup>herbs.<sup>1</sup> children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to <sup>1</sup>search it, is<sup>1</sup> a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and <sup>2</sup>all the people that we saw in it <sup>3</sup>are<sup>1</sup> <sup>4</sup>men of <sup>5</sup>a<sup>1</sup> great stature.

CHAPTER 14.

AND all the congregation <sup>1</sup>A lifted up their voice, and cried; and <sup>2</sup>the people wept that night.

3 <sup>2</sup>And all the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or <sup>3</sup>would God we had died in this wilderness!

3 And wherefore <sup>4</sup>hath<sup>1</sup> the LORD <sup>5</sup>brought<sup>1</sup> us unto this land, to fall by the <sup>6</sup>sword, that our wives and our children should be a prey? <sup>7</sup>were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

4 And they said one to another, <sup>8</sup>Let us make a captain, and <sup>9</sup>let us return into Egypt.

5 Then <sup>10</sup>Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

6 <sup>11</sup>¶ And Joshua the son of Nun<sup>1</sup>, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, <sup>12</sup>which were of them that <sup>13</sup>searched<sup>1</sup> the land, rent their clothes:

8 If the LORD <sup>17</sup>delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it <sup>18</sup>us; <sup>19</sup>a land which floweth with milk and honey.

9 Only <sup>20</sup>rebel not <sup>21</sup>ye<sup>1</sup> against the LORD, <sup>22</sup>neither fear ye the people of the land; for <sup>23</sup>they <sup>24</sup>are bread for us: their <sup>25</sup>defence is <sup>26</sup>departed from<sup>1</sup> them, tenth deal of <sup>16</sup> flour mingled <sup>17</sup> with the fourth <sup>18</sup> part of an hin of oil <sup>19</sup>.

5 And the fourth <sup>20</sup> part of an hin of wine for a drink offer-the burnt offering or <sup>21</sup> sacrifice, for <sup>22</sup> one' lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou shalt prepare <sup>23</sup> for a meat' offering two tenth <sup>24</sup> deals of <sup>25</sup> flour mingled with the third <sup>26</sup> part of an hin of oil <sup>27</sup>.

7 And for <sup>28</sup> a' drink offering thou shalt offer the third <sup>29</sup> part of an hin of wine, <sup>30</sup> for' a sweet savour unto the LORD.

8 And when thou preparest a bullock <sup>31</sup> for a burnt offering, or <sup>32</sup> for a sacrifice <sup>33</sup> in performing' a vow, or <sup>34</sup> peace offerings unto the LORD:

9 Then shall he <sup>35</sup> bring <sup>36</sup> with a bullock a meat' offering of three tenth <sup>37</sup> deals of <sup>38</sup> flour

10 And thou shalt <sup>39</sup> bring for

Aaron died, and there he was buried; and Eleazar his son ministered in the priest's office in his stead.

11 <sup>a</sup>And the LORD said unto me, Arise, <sup>2</sup>take †thy journey before the people <sup>3</sup>, that they may <sup>1</sup>go in and possess the land, which I swore unto their fathers to give unto them.

12 <sup>o</sup>¶ And now, Israel, <sup>1</sup>what doth the LORD thy God require of thee, but <sup>u</sup>to fear the LORD thy God, <sup>z</sup>to walk in all his ways, and <sup>v</sup>to love him, and to serve the LORD thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, 13 To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his statutes, which I command thee this day <sup>e</sup>for thy good?

more for thee, beside these three:

<sup>12</sup> Then the elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

<sup>17</sup>They sacrificed unto <sup>2</sup>devils, <sup>3</sup>not to God;<sup>1</sup> to gods whom they knew not, to new gods <sup>4</sup>that came <sup>5</sup>newly up,<sup>1</sup> whom your fathers <sup>6</sup>feared<sup>1</sup> not.

<sup>21</sup>They have moved me to jealousy with <sup>2</sup>that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger <sup>3</sup>with their vanities: and <sup>4</sup>I will move them to jealousy with <sup>5</sup>those which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.

<sup>22</sup>For <sup>1</sup>a fire is kindled in mine anger, and <sup>2</sup>shall burn<sup>1</sup> unto the lowest <sup>3</sup>hell,<sup>1</sup> and <sup>4</sup>shall consume<sup>1</sup> the earth with her increase, and <sup>5</sup>set<sup>1</sup>

CHAPTER 33.

7 †And this †is †the blessing of Judah: and he said, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah, and bring him †unto his people:

5 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of Jordan, and take you up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel:

6 That this may be a sign among you, †that <sup>d</sup>when your children ask <sup>o</sup>their fathers<sup>1</sup> in time to come, saying, What †mean ye by these stones?

AND Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to <sup>1</sup>Shechem, and <sup>2</sup>called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they <sup>3</sup>presented themselves before God.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD <sup>1</sup>God of Israel, <sup>2</sup>Your fathers dwelt <sup>3</sup>on the other side of the flood in old time, even <sup>4</sup>Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of <sup>5</sup>Nachor: and <sup>6</sup>they served other gods.

5 <sup>1</sup>I sent Moses also, and Aaron, and <sup>2</sup>I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did <sup>3</sup>among them: and afterward I brought you out.

7 And when they <sup>1</sup>cried unto the LORD, <sup>2</sup>he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, <sup>3</sup>and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and <sup>4</sup>your eyes <sup>5</sup>have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness <sup>6</sup>a long season.
